P. E. Car Kills Rancher at Crossing

MAN IN AUTO MEETS DEATH ON RAILROAD

F. Marion Pryor, of Bolsa, Run Down As He Attempts to Cross West 5th

MACHINE IS WRECKED

Fatality Probably Due to Poor Eyesight of Victim; Motorman Gives Alarm

F. MARION PRYOR, 64 years old, rancher, residing south-west of Bolsa, was killed instantly about 10:45 o'clock this morning, when the automobile he was driving toward Santa Ana was struck by a Los Angeles-bound car on the Pacific Electric line, at the West Fifth street crossing.

Pryor, who was on his way to Santa Ana to serve as a member of the superior court jury in department 2, was dead when motorman Neal Brock brought his car to a stop, approximately 100 feet from where the crash occurred. The body was removed to the Winbiger funeral home. The car was smashed.

Unaware of Approaching Car

Pryor, who has resided in the Bolsa neighborhood for about 20 years, evidently did not see the approaching electric car, according to the motorman. Brock said he blew the horn and rang the bell in an effort to warn the man of the danger, but that the driver did not see the red car until he did not have sufficient time to clear the crossing. Witnesses to the accident, who were working in fields nearby, asserted that they heard the warnings sounded by the motorman. They also declared the wig-wag at the grade crossing was working, and the bell was ringing.

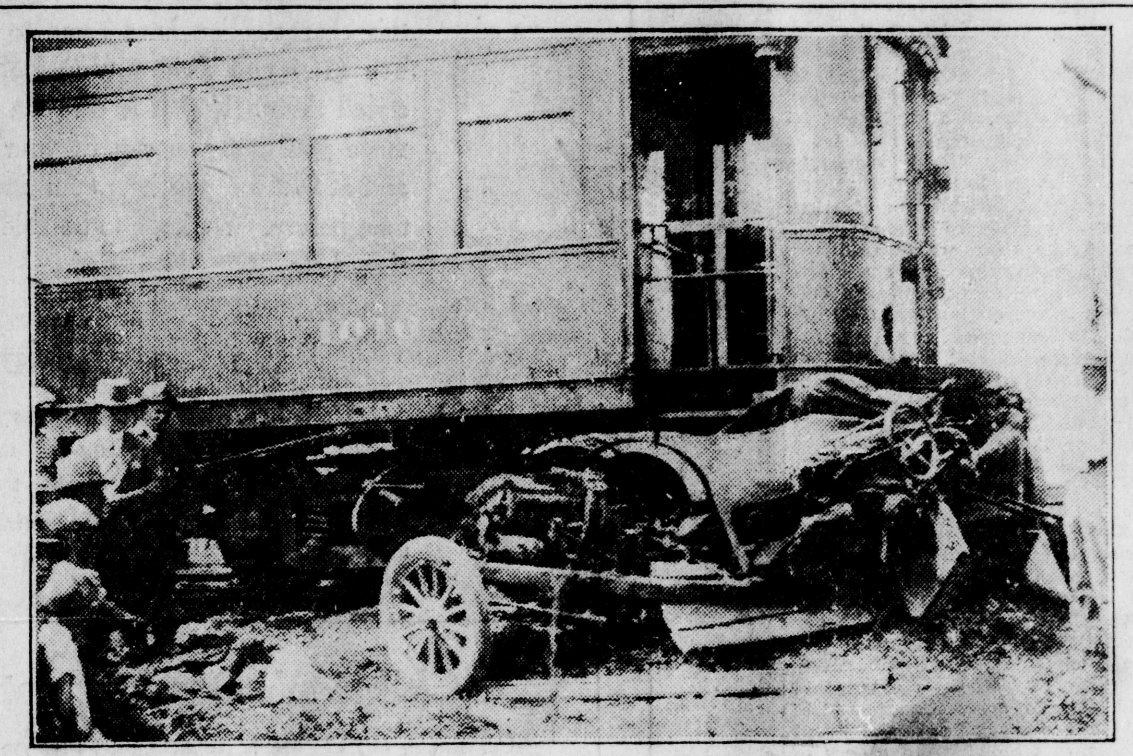

Pryor was driving a car registered to Clarence McQueen, but newspaper investigation established that McQueen, employed at the Standard American Glass factory had turned the car back to the firm from which he had purchased it several years ago.

Pryor leaves a widow, Mrs. Emma Pryor, four sons and two daughters. One of the daughters is Mrs. Vera Wetlin, wife of Deputy District Attorney David Wetlin. The other daughter, Carmel, resides at the family home. Pryor's sister resides in Sacramento. The sons are Hadley Pryor, of Fullerton; Cecil, of Yuma, Ariz.; Earl, of Grayton, and Carl, who is in the navy.

Man's Eyesight Poor

Mrs. Callie Worthy, sister of Mrs. Pryor, said her brother-in-law did not have good eyesight, but that he had never been involved in an automobile accident before.

HINDU-MOSLEM RIOTS TAKE 8 LIVES IN INDIA

(By United Press)

CALCUTTA, British India, July 15.—Eight persons were killed and more than 100 injured today during fighting between Moslems and Hindus, which finally was ended by a mounted police charge and the use of firearms.

Hundreds of persons have been arrested and the most drastic police action in recent years is being taken to prevent further outbreaks. The city was calm this evening, but the situation is likely to become critical during the night, as darkness favors the tactics of the rioters.

Disorder broke out when Moslem crowds attempted to obstruct a procession of Hindus. The Hindus were marching to music and observers say that they were not making any aggressive action.

The Moslems came out of side streets on to the line of march and squatted on the pavements to pray, thereby holding up the parade.

The prisoners captured today were M. A. Townsend and Henry Wright. Those still at large are Neil Flynn, Henry Harris and sentences ranging from two to six years, for burglary and highway robbery.

NEW YORK, July 15.—Indications that the submarine S-51 had engine trouble on the night of Sept. 25, 1925, when she was rammed and sunk by the steamship City of Rome, have been discovered, Lt. Com. Edward Elsbarger, officer in charge of salvage, told the naval board of inquiry. Salt water pockets were found in the forward tanks of the ship and the after tanks contained no fuel, he said. The board meets today to prepare its findings.

BOSTON, July 15.—Warrants for the arrest of Dr. Thomas E. Walsh and his wife, on charges of first-degree murder, were issued in municipal court here today, in connection with the death of Miss Edith Louise Green, 19-year-old state ward.

This action was preceded by a police raid on the south end office of Dr. Walsh, who is alleged to have dismembered the young woman's body and concealed it near a Mattapan cemetery, after she had died from an illegal operation. No trace of the physician or his wife was found.

James Vincent Ford, 21, of South Boston, with whom Miss Green filed marriage intentions on July 3, was arrested by police early today and held for questioning. He said the girl disappeared while in the physician's care.

FIRE DANGER IN TIMBERED AREA GROWS

Forecasts of Hot Weather And Low Humidity Add To Peril of Forest Blazes

NEW OUTBREAKS SEEN

Flames in Northern Part of State Out of Control; Planes Used in Scouting

(By United Press)

SAN FRANCISCO, July 15.—Existing high fire hazard in the forests of northern California will be doubled within the coming 24 hours, it was expected today at district headquarters of the forest service.

Forecasts of low humidity and high temperatures were interpreted as a warning of fresh outbreaks of possibly serious fires.

Four fires of the 40 started by lightning storms Tuesday and Wednesday, in the Klamath and Trinity National forests, were still uncontrolled today, the forest service said. No danger was expected from the 36 fires of smaller dimensions which were checked yesterday.

Three of today's fires were burning through heavily timbered land in the Happy Camp district. The fourth was spreading over 200 acres of timber land on Bogus creek, in the Yreka district of the Klamath forest.

Airplanes are reconnoitering the Klamath forest to pick up "hang-over" lightning fires.

A brush fire on O'Brien mountain, between Baird and Pollock, on the state highway, near Redding, was being fought by a large crew of state rangers and volunteers.

Beauty Drinks, Drives Fast, Draws 90 Days

LOS ANGELES, July 15.—Marjorie Carr, comely Long Beach motorist, began a 90-day term in the Los Angeles county jail today for reckless driving.

Miss Carr was sentenced by Municipal Judge Louis P. Russell, who told her that a medical examination revealed she was intoxicated while driving past an intersection at 32 miles an hour.

"Well, I did have two Scotch highballs," she admitted, when sentence was pronounced.

The court added it would be unfair to sentence a man to 90 days for a dangerous violation and not do the same with a woman, even though she is pretty.

MA FERGUSON SLIGHTLY HURT IN RAIL WRECK

(By United Press)

TEMPLE, Texas, July 15.—Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson, of Texas, was injured, one trainman was killed and several others were hurt when a Santa Fe train collided head on with a freight train near here early today.

The woman governor's injuries were slight. She was sleeping in a stateroom in the rear coach of the passenger train and was bruised when thrown violently against her berth.

W. G. Chew, Cleburne, Tex., engineer of the passenger train, was killed.

Among those injured was Ward C. Mayborn, Fort Worth, Tex., general manager of the Scripps-Howard newspapers in the southwest, who was bruised about the body.

Reports here say that the passenger train ran into an open switch and collided with the freight train. The passenger train was moving swiftly at the time of the accident. The engine of the passenger train was wrecked and a baggage car was thrown from the track.

CONFLICT IN KIDNAP TALE POINTED OUT

Neither Woman Evangelist Nor Mrs. Kennedy Will Be Recalled to Testify

Location of Elusive Ormiston Continues to Baffle Probers of Mystery

(By United Press)

LOS ANGELES, July 15.—Official inquiry into the mystery of Aimee Semple McPherson's self-described kidnapping may be ended by tonight, according to District Attorney Asa Keyes.

The prosecutor admitted that failure to locate Kenneth G. Ormiston, missing "key witness," may bring a speedy end to the investigation.

He declared also that, despite the conflict of testimony, neither Mrs. McPherson nor her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, would be recalled before the grand jury.

"Anything they might say would not help in the least," said the district attorney. "The case is nearing a close, and I think the grand jury understands it."

Handwriting Expert Testifies

Milton Carlson, handwriting expert, was the principal witness at today's session, probably the final, of the grand jury.

He testified concerning receipt at Angeles temple of a telegram from Oakland, three days after Mrs. McPherson's reported drowning in the surf at Venice, stating the evangelist was alive.

The original telegram, in long-hand, compared with a sample of Ormiston's handwriting. Carlson told the jurors, the witness said he had made a scientific study of both the telegram and of Ormiston's penmanship, and he was certain of his conclusions.

IN FRANCE, at least, the difficulty is not necessarily with parliamentary institutions themselves. Rather, it is with the peculiar French form of them. The present French Chamber of Deputies is one under which government is impossible. No combination of its many parties which might produce a majority on one issue could possibly survive the next, which would require a different combination. It has become almost a matter of a new government for each bill. Such a situation is so obviously impossible that in England or Germany it would force a new election, to see if the people would not elect a parliament which would operate on the same Chamber basis. But in France the same Chamber stays on for four years, whether it can operate or not. What changes, after each failure, is not the Chamber, but the government.

RETURNING to our own Congress—it has shown the usual "investigation" mania, and has finally had the luck to wind up with about the only one of them that is of any use. The uncovering of the sources and distribution of the enormous funds spent in recent election campaigns will let daylight in on a situation which needs it. It may very well be that none of this expenditure was illegal, and perhaps little of it was even illegitimate. So much the better for the usefulness of the investigation. For it is the system that needs clearing; not some particular person's wickedness that needs punishing. If popular revulsion finds no individual to hound, it may the more intelligently face the larger situation. At any rate, Congress, for once, has started something useful.

VETERANS WILL FORM COUNTY POLITICAL BODY

Plans were being completed today for the meeting, tomorrow night, of ex-service men and women of Orange county, to be held for the purpose of organizing the veterans politically. The meeting will begin at 8 p. m., and will be held in the American Legion home, on Birch street, Santa Ana.

That no candidate for county or state office will be endorsed by the new organization was announced today by Maurice Enderle, leader in ex-service men's affairs and who, with several others, is responsible for the new movement.

The idea of the new organization will be, primarily, to organize interest among the veterans so that a heavy vote will be cast by ex-service men and women, Enderle said.

Rumors to the effect that the organization will be, primarily, to organize ex-service men and women politically, to arouse interest among the veterans so that a heavy vote will be cast by ex-service men and women, Enderle said.

Rumors to the effect that the organization would endorse the candidacy of former soldiers, seeking office, were denied.

Enderle declared that the organization would take a great deal of interest in the county election, but at the present time no effort will be made to favor any candidate.

He asserted, however, that the organization would be, in the future, for the purpose of furthering the interests of ex-service men, and that endorsements probably would be made in years to come.

In cases where ex-service men are not running, the organization will take no hand, it was intimated.

TRACES OF ICE AGE ARE FOUND IN MONGOLIA

RIGA, July 15.—The Russian explorer of Mongolia, Colonel Kozloff, has sent home an account of his latest explorations, mostly in the Khangai mountains, among the bare rocks of which his party found the tombs of 20 generations of San-Nah Khans.

For some hundreds of miles, he says, this mountain range shows unquestionable traces of the Ice age. The slopes present sharp contrasts, the southern sides being steep, rocky and comparatively poor in vegetation and animal life, while the northern slope is rich and luxuriant.

The tombs were found near the summit of the ridge. Stone slabs cover the graves, which are embellished with wooden ornamentation and surrounded by a wooden fence, on the inside of which hang painted representations of Buddha and Buddhist reformers.

Tombs Near High Peaks
Funeral rites are quite unknown in Mongolia, according to Colonel Kozloff, who finds particular interest in these tombs at a height of nearly 6000 feet above sea level, close to the gray, craggy mountain peaks. The explorer writes:

"The ancient inhabitants of what is now Mongolia in the remotest ages of the past worshipped the Khangai mountains and their offspring, the rivers Orkhon and Ongi-Gol, singing praises to their wealth, spaciousness, and luxuriance. Mongols still venerate and extol the dominating peaks of Khangai-Sovrak-Khairkham and Irigit-Khairkhan for their 'divine' beauty and, chiefly, because these massive rocks gave birth to the river Orkhon, grand and great, with its blue-water rapids hurrying down through deep canyons to nourish the vast slope pastures below."

In one of these canyons the explorer discovered a picturesque waterfall, to which the name of "The Kozloff Waterfall" was given. The cataract falls from a ledge 70 feet high into a gorge composed of hard dark gneissic rock, the upper surfaces of which are in places of a sponge-like appearance.

Worship Waterfall
Until recently this waterfall was the object of particular worship by the natives, who propitiated it by sacrifices of silver, which they cast into the swollen, foaming tide, with prayers and prostrations.

The upper reaches of the river Orkhon abound in vast streams of dark "bubbly" lava, running close to the river and sometimes swelling out into great lake-like expanses. These streams are often "twined" into such complicated mazes that even the natives sometimes get lost in the labyrinth, to say nothing of the casual traveler, who has no hope of finding his way.

In ancient days these volcanic formations served the inhabitants as an inexhaustible store of material for their lofty cairns and other monuments, which are to be found not only along the course of the principal rivers but also along the small tributaries. Here and there, ancient monuments with well preserved embellishments are to be discovered, but the native Mongols are somewhat shy about helping travelers to find them. With the help of presents, however, the tactful stranger can generally manage to obtain a guide to them.

Ice Cream 'Champ' May Lose 'Honors'

HAYFORK, Calif., July 15.—The mysterious young man who startled Willows citizens recently by eating 13 dishes of ice cream had better look to his laurels.

A new claimant to the ice cream eating championship of California has bobbed up here. He is Frank Thompson, who walked into a local ice cream parlor and consumed 37 well filled cones.

If he weren't so bashful, Thompson might have done additional cones, even. When he noticed that he was attracting a good deal of attention he left the store in a hurry.

Death Notices

A WORD OF COMFORT
To him who does not trust God, there is something intelligible and awful in the mysterious darkness which sorrow brings to the soul of man.
He who dares to believe and to trust, walks confidently forward, knowing that his Father will give light enough to reveal the path a few steps ahead. His heart aches, but he knows that his Father suffers with him and that at the end of the day there is joy and peace.

CHINA AUTHORITY
RETURNS TO U. S.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 15.—His wife's death and the unfavorable turn of events in China have brought one of the greatest authorities on China, Dr. Arthur Henderson Smith, back to the United States to spend his remaining years.

Eighty-one years old, Dr. Smith had intended to remain and die in China, a country he virtually adopted 34 years ago.

He returned to the United States on the Dollar liner President Cleveland, and left today for Claremont, Calif., where he will make his home. Prior to entering China, he was a Congregational pastor in Pasadena.

"The situation in China is hopeless and there will be no democracy in that country for hundreds of years to come," he said. "There are 22 different provinces in China and the people of the different provinces live their own lives and govern themselves as they see fit."

"The present delusion or superstition about there being a republic there is nothing but bottled moonshine."

Is Age Controlled by Glands?

Dr. Serge Voronoff of France, famous physician and surgeon,
who has devoted years to research and experimentation with glandular treatment, says: "A man is worth only as much as his glands."
Dr. Arnold Lorand says in his book, "Old Age Deferred," in speaking of the glands: "We must insist upon the reinforcement of their functions if changed by age or disease by means of extracts obtained from the similar organs of healthy animals."
The new scientific formula—Glando-gen—embodies this method. Glando-gen is a highly concentrated gland compound in convenient, compact tablet form which combines the important extracts of the vital glands of healthy young animals with other efficacious ingredients. Hundreds of Keen-eyed men and women are today taking Glandogen. Accept no substitutes. Insist on genuine Glandogen, the original gland tonic. C. S. Kelley

ACID THROWER BEING HELD ON FELONY CHARGE

A complaint, charging assault with intent to commit murder, has been filed against Almie Jennings, 49, who, Tuesday night, is alleged to have thrown acid in her husband's face, probably permanently blinding him, and to have shot at him while both were in a hotel room here.

Mrs. Jennings, who is thought to be insane, was removed from the Santa Ana Valley hospital yesterday afternoon to the Orange county hospital, where she is being held under police surveillance.

The complaint charging the felony was signed by Robert Elliott, sergeant of police, one of the officers who was called to St. Ann's soon after the shooting and one of three who aided in breaking in the bathroom door of the apartment and rescuing Mrs. Jennings, who attempted to drown herself in a bathtub.

Mrs. Jennings' physical condition was normal today, it was said. The husband, Samuel Jennings, still is in the Santa Ana Valley hospital, suffering from severe acid burns in both eyes. Physicians were uncertain as to how much vision Jennings would have after medical science had done its part for the man. They were frank to admit, however, that his sight would forever be impaired. His condition today was reported as improved.

Mrs. Jennings, whom her husband said had not "been right" for some time, will not receive a sanity test before her arraignment on the criminal charge. It was intimated today. The matter is in the hands of the police, who said that the woman probably would be arraigned before Justice of the Peace Kenneth Morrison either late today or tomorrow.

If she is insane, officials said, that fact will be brought out at the time of the criminal hearing.

San Bernardino County Has Big Deposit of Onyx

What is said to be the second largest deposit of commercial onyx in the world has been located in San Bernardino county.

This fact was developed at proceedings before the state corporation department, administrator of California's "blue sky" law, incidental to exploitation of the mineral deposit.

George H. Reubens, president of the Pacific Gem company, which has a lease on and option to purchase mineral claims embracing the deposit, said he was advised by engineers that there was a billion tons of onyx in the 100 acres. The only larger body of the mineral known to exist in the world, he advised, is in Algeria, North Africa. There also are large deposits of onyx in Mexico, but Reubens regards the California deposit as more important because of its richer and wider range of colorings.

It is not likely that the activities of the Pacific Gem company will exhaust the billion ton deposit in the near future. It is engaged at present in making onyx balls for automobile gear shift levers. Later it expects to include playing marbles, door knobs and tiles in its products.

APPEALED GUN CLUB CASE IN COUNTY COURT

The case of the West Shore Gun club, recently fined $300 by Justice Kenneth E. Morrison, following a jury conviction of water waste, today was before Superior Judge Z. B. West on appeal.

Defense Counsel L. A. West, of Santa Ana, opened argument on a demurrer in Judge West's court at 10 a. m. The argument, for and against the demurrer, was expected to continue most of the day.

The demurrer is said to be the crux of the case and the decision upon it will decide the entire case. Associated with West for the defense was Attorney George Adams, of Los Angeles. District Attorney A. P. Nelson and Deputy D. G. Wetlin represented the state. West, in opening the case, contended that the charge of wasting water, for which the gun club was prosecuted, was insufficient to state a public offense. His position was technical, attacking the form of the official complaint as not conforming to provisions of the act under which it was drawn. The result of the asserted error in pleadings, he argued, was to throw upon the defense the burden of proving itself innocent, instead of placing upon the prosecution the burden of proving guilt.

Nelson was scheduled to answer West's argument later in the proceedings.

Morning Wedding in Los Angeles for Local Bride

HOSTS of friends of Miss Helen Banks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Banks, 702 Spurgeon street, will be deeply interested in details of her wedding to William R. Bennett of Monrovia, which was to take place this morning in Los Angeles at the Cathedral rectory with the Rev. Father Hanrahan officiating. Miss Banks chose to be married in her traveling costume, a smart little tulle of blue with felt hat, and blonde gloves, shoes and hosiery. With the costume she wore a superb white fox fur, Mr. Bennett's gift to his bride.

M. R. Dunlap, a friend of the groom, was host at a wedding breakfast following the ceremony, and this afternoon the happy young people were to go to San Francisco by steamer. After a northern honeymoon, they will make their home in Monrovia on Poppy avenue.

Miss Banks has been the incentive for many delightful pre-nuptial affairs given by her friends, and will have many beautiful shower and wedding gifts with which to adorn her new home.

CHURCH SOCIETIES

First Presbyterian
In the shaded parlors of the First Presbyterian church, the Women's Missionary society held its mid-summer session Wednesday afternoon where the deep orange and gold of dahlias and marigolds and white Mamon Cochet roses lent to the room a cheerful note of color. The president, Mrs. H. A. Allen, was gladly welcomed back to her office from her vacation at Forest Home and after leading in prayer for the vital interest of the church, presented a letter from Dr. Wilson of Korea descriptive of his work in the leper colony in that country.

Mrs. Alfred R. Gray, well-known missionary from China, was introduced by the president and in a charmingly informal way brought the greetings of the Christian women of northern China to the Christian women of America. The program for the day upon "Achievements of the year" and "The Orientals in the United States" was in charge of Mrs. C. B. Buxton who presented Mrs. R. W. Jones of Orange as speaker for the devotional period. Taking "Power" as her theme Mrs. Jones developed her subject in a masterly manner, expressing the need of divine power to be as essential in the commonplace affairs of life as in its heart-breaking problems, citing a galaxy of heroes whose "power" in service transformed the lives of others; and then repeating the triumphant salves of the Sixty-second psalm.

Mrs. Buxton introduced Mrs. T. S. Blair who spoke entertainingly upon Foreign Evangelization. Quoting from the report of Robert E. Speer, she told of the work carried on by the church in all of its different channels. In a comprehensive survey of conditions in the educational awakening of the Moslems of Syria and young people of China.

Mrs. A. M. McDermott presented "The work for foreigners in the United States." In the broad scope of her topic, Mrs. McDermott collaborated the different lines of work and the agencies that develop them and brought in vivid review the varied activities carried on in behalf of the southern mountaineers, Mexicans, negroes, Indians, army and navy; noting the outposts of evangelism extending from Point Barrow, the most northern point of Alaska where a hospital has operated for forty-nine years, to Porto Rico's hospital which is celebrating its twenty-fifth year of progress and bringing out the fact that some form of mission work for the Indians is being carried forward in every state in the United States.

A few moments of interest were given to the recounting of current events followed by a summary of the Presbyterian by Mrs. Buxton. Mrs. H. N. Brothers beautifully sang "Just For Today," accompanied on the piano by her daughter, Mrs. White.

A box of crystallized fruit and a basket of many-hued summer flowers was presented. Miss Grace Rowley who leaves shortly for her mission field in Wei Hsien, China.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

The Doris Welles auxiliary of the First M. E. church will meet with Miss Marjorie Lusk at the Robinson cottage in Newport Beach next Monday evening at 6:30 o'clock. There will be a pot-luck supper. Members are requested to gather at the church and leave promptly at 6 o'clock. Come prepared to sew.

Party Hostess Reveals News of Betrothal To Her Friends

MISS MILDRED BEADETTE entertained a little group of close friends at her home, 1036 West Chestnut avenue, recently in celebration of her eighteenth birthday, and at the same time revealed to them the secret of her engagement to Walter Shaw, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Shaw, 1730 West Washington avenue.

An entertaining evening of games was followed by delicious refreshments served by the young hostess and her mother, Mrs. Edward Beaudette. A pretty color scheme of lavender and green was employed not only in the flowers, which were used in profusion throughout the cozy home, but in the hand-made place cards, nut-cups, candy mints and ices of the refreshment hour.

When the guests were seated to enjoy the delectable little supper, Mr. Beaudette, father of the birthday celebrant, read an announcement poem concluding with the query "Who?" The guests speedily found the answer within tiny envelopes concealed in the nut cups, for cards above bore the names "Mildred and Walter."

A beautiful diamond on Miss Mildred's left hand, had aroused the curiosity of the guests all evening, and the thrilling announcement set all their doubts at rest. The young people declined to give the date of the wedding, admitting only that it would be an event of the near future.

Miss Beaudette received many handsome birthday gifts including a wrist watch from her fiancé. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Hurd, Mr. and Mrs. Lauren Lutz, Mr. and Mrs. J. Renals, the Misses Marie and Lucille Morgan, Elsie Hurd, Katharine Shaw, Lorraine Carroll, Messrs. Walter, Harold and Norman Shaw, the hostess, Miss Mildred Beaudette, her parents and her two young sisters, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Beaudette and the Misses Natalie and Celia Beaudette.

Birthday Dinner Given at Inn

Her twelfth birthday was made a happy event for little Miss Frances Farrar yesterday, when she was made honor guest at a dinner party given by S. T. Alton of Enid, Okla., a guest at St. Ann's Inn.

Mr. Alton planned a party with decorative details in pink, the birthday maid's favorite color. Twelve wee crystal candlesticks with pink candles, adorned the table, twelve more pink candles gleamed on the birthday cake, while pink sweet peas and pink fluted dillies completed the artistic effect.

Covers were laid for the host, Mr. Alton, the little honoree, Miss Frances, her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Farrar in whose home on North Broadway she is a guest, and Miss Pearl Farrar, Frances's daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Foss Farrar of Arkansas.

Hints to Fur-Buyers

An interesting fact concerning fox furs, and one that few persons seem to know, is about the worn looking places on the brush, or tail, of each animal.

Perhaps you have been looking over the skins since the summer sales began, trying to decide on a platinum, peach, blond, or snowy white, and have noticed a very small worn looking spot on the top of the tail, from one to two inches from the base, or where the tail joins the body of the fox. This is caused by the little animal snuggling his nose down in the fur to keep warm when he sleeps. He buries his nose there and draws the tail over his feet to keep them warm too. This tiny spot, where the hairs are shorter, can be seen on every genuine fox skin. Most people when they see the mark, think the skin has been moth-eaten and ask the salesman for a perfect skin, not knowing that they are getting one with an absolutely genuine trade mark.

Every state in the union was represented, as visiting P. E. O.'s were included among the guests. Special honors were accorded Mrs. Friend Richardson, wife of the chief executive of the state, who is summering in Long Beach, the gubernatorial family having taken one of the beautiful homes on Ocean avenue for the season.

Many Enjoy Bridge At Country Club

Blue skies shining over wide stretches of green lawn were all decorations necessary for the monthly bridge party yesterday at Santa Ana Country club. Through each of the many windows, the guests looked out upon a perfect picture which added to the charm of an interesting afternoon. During the progress of the bridge games, punch and wafers were served. Mrs. Merlele of Whittier, a guest of Mrs. L. G. Swales, scored high and Mrs. Barton, another of Mrs. Swales' guests held low score. The award for second place went to Mrs. Susan Rutherford.

After their enjoyment of a special luncheon menu, the guests were directed to the Nowotny home at 1005 West Sixth street where bridge tables were awaiting them. Music Recital

A general invitation has been issued to the recital at the Chandler music room tomorrow night, when Miss Carolyn Haughton will present a talented young piano pupil, Maryanna Deaver, in a program of Bach, Schumann, Grieg and Chopin numbers.

The program will begin at 8 o'clock. In addition to the piano solos, Miss Maryanna (who is an expression pupil of Holly Lash Vise) will give several monologues and two groups of piano duets. The little girl is only 11 years old and has studied music under Miss Haughton less than two years.

The condition of Charles A. Stephens, 23, Laguna Beach man, who was severely injured early yesterday morning when the automobile, which he was driving, crashed into passenger train No. 78, at the Santa Fe crossing on East Fourth street, was improved today, attendants in the Orange County hospital said. The man will be taken to his home today.

Stephens is alleged to have driven his machine into the train after the train had come to a standstill near the station and on the crossing. Santa Fe officials denied today that Stephens' car was struck by the train, they claiming that the train was struck by the automobile.

At the time of the accident the wig-wag was in operation and safety bells were ringing, it was said.

'PSYCHOLOGY OF PERSUASION'
SUBJECT OF TALK DELIVERED
BEFORE S. A. KIWANIS CLUB

"The Psychology of Persuasion," was the subject of an address, delivered yesterday at the meeting of the Santa Ana Kiwanis club, by Gerald E. Marsh, who heads the department of persuasion and speech at Carlton college, Northfield, Minn. Marsh and his wife are here on a visit to the parents of Mrs. Marsh, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Westcott, 624 South Van Ness avenue.

The speaker was present at the request of H. G. Nelson, recently appointed chairman of the club's educational committee, who officiated as chairman and who developed the program as an educational day feature.

Group of Thinkers
"There are a certain group of thinkers in this country who insist that America is 'going to pot,'" Marsh said. "This group is the so-called 'Intelligentsia' headed by Drieser, Anderson and H. L.
Mencken, of the American Mercury. But when you search through their writings for something in the way of a constructive suggestion, something that may stay the tide of destruction, a tow rope, you look in vain. Because they are not constructive some of us may pay no heed to their preachments. But when we hear Professor McDougall, of Harvard university, successor to the great William James, say 'As I behold America dancing gaily on her way to destruction, I seem to be witnessing the greatest tragedy of the ages,' it might be well for us to listen for a moment.
And when we hear his statement echoed by such men as Raymond Robbins, Walter Lippman and scores of other prominent thinkers, it becomes impressive, indeed.

"The only difference between the first group and the second is that the latter holds out for us some kind of solution. It may differ in what this solution may be, but at least it has one. I am interested here particularly in one that Professor McDougall offers. He says that one of the hopes of prolonging our civilization lies in the willingness to study human nature. We must learn to analyze the springs, the forces, the impulses that cause
human beings to act as they do.
Otherwise the speed, machine efficiency, material inventions will prove to be more than we, with our present wisdom, can handle.

Art of Influencing
"Persuasion is the art of influencing conduct with all the resources of the living man. Psychology is the study of the workings of the mind. In order to use the former, an intimate knowledge of the latter is necessary. Is there any combination that would require a closer study of human nature than these? There is no man, who is not using, or trying to use, persuasion every day of his life—the teacher, the business man, the lawyer. And it is used on every man every day. The advertiser uses it constantly. Well he knows the value of scientific principles of persuasion! So well, in fact, that he is willing to spend thousands of dollars learning them. He knows and studies human nature for a purpose! He knows that if he applies the psychological laws of attention and interest and drives at the fundamental hungers in humanity that he will sell his product. But the individual lags behind as always and is willing to go at the things in a hit or miss manner! When the individual awakens and is willing to try to learn certain elementary principles of human behavior; when he becomes objective rather than subjective;
when he learns to look at the actions of the other fellow with a critical eye, then we may hope to stave off degeneracy!

Man Reasoning Animal
"Most of us are prone to regard man as the reasoning animal. It would be far more accurate and correct to describe him as an animal with reasoning capacity, for psychologists are unanimous that man very rarely reasons. Rather, he is the subject of imitation, suggestion, heredity, environment and crowd pressure. It would be well that some of us became more conscious of such persuasive pulls on us for our own good so that we might avoid being exploited.
"Persuasion, in itself, neither is good nor bad. It is like law or medicine. In the hands of unscrupulous propagandists it may become the instrument of the devil. In the hands of good men, men with high ethical standards, it is a tremendous power for good. I am not concerned with the ethics of it. All that I am concerned with is that a knowledge of it will give us a better understanding of human nature."

PRESIDENT HAS SCHEDULE FOR VACATION PLAY

PAUL SMITH'S, N. Y., July 15.
—President Coolidge plays as he works—on schedule. Here for his vacation among the Adirondack lakes and woods, he has a set time to fish; a time to walk; a time to sleep and to eat.

He goes about his play deliberately, just as in Washington he goes deliberately about the receiving of callers, signing of bills or conferring with his cabinet.

Schedule For Day

Here is his vacation schedule for a full day:

7 a. m.—Awakens.

7:30 a. m.—Breakfast.

8:30 a. m.—Goes fishing.

11 a. m.—Returns from fishing and reads mail, dictates letters and confers with staff.1 p. m.—Lunch. After lunch he takes a nap.3 p. m.—Awakens and goes fishing once more.5 p. m.—Returns from fishing and walks around the grounds of his camp.7 p. m.—Dinner. After dinner, he reads, plays with the dogs and chats with Mrs. Coolidge.

10:30 p. m.—Retires.

He dresses appropriately for every occasion. When fishing he wears a pair of rawhide boots, a rough suit with rough riding breeches and an old felt hat, with his fishing badge, given him by Gov. Al Smith, of New York, displayed on the crown.

Changes For Dinner

Walking, he displays a like costume. Before dinner, he changes to a lounge suit, the kind he always wears in Washington.

On rainy days, or on days when rain is expected, he carries a worn black slicker. When the sun is particularly warm, he often wears an old leghorn hat, with its rim pulled down all the way around.

Mrs. Coolidge, on the other hand, wears much the same clothes she wears in Washington. She usually dresses in a light frock, which she wears all day. When she goes walking, generally once a day, she wears, often, a pair of boots similar to those worn by her husband.
On several occasions, however, she has worn pumps while walking.

Runaway Child Is Object of Search

Sheriff's officers have been asked to make a search for Claude Newman, 11, who is said to have run away from his home, 308 North Lawrence street, Fullerton, yesterday. The boy has light hair and blue eyes and when last seen was wearing a cap and khaki coveralls.
He was described as being unusually large for his age.

PROGRAM FOR BAND CONCERT IS ANNOUNCED

The concert program tonight, in Birch park, by the Santa Ana municipal band, will start at 7:30.
It was announced today by D. C.
Cianfoni, instructor.

Robert L. Brown, popular barito-tone, will be the soloist on tonight's program, the first to be given in the series of summer concerts announced for every Thursday night until September 1.

Cianfoni said today that the outstanding number of the classics to be rendered will be the selection from "Faust." He pointed out that this popular opera was first played in the Theater Lyrique, Paris, March 19, 1839.

"It is founded upon Goethe's tragedy and it is the best opera Charles Gounod ever wrote," the director commented.

"Another brilliant number will be
"The Butterfly," an inter-mezzo by Bendix, in which the main theme is written for wooden wind instruments," he added.

In preparation for the concerts and to add to the convenience of the players and the public, the sides of the band stand have been inclosed, this being made possible through the generosity of Stanley Clem, of the Santa Ana Lumber company, who donated the lumber, additional electric lights have been installed and additional seats have been added.

Second and Third streets will be roped off to prevent cars driving by the park on those streets. It is understood that machines may be driven in on the streets and parked, but that they cannot be moved during the hour of the program. This will make it possible for owners to sit in their cars and enjoy the musical program.

Police officers and Boy Scouts will patrol the park to maintain order.

DEVELOPMENT SECTION

SECTION TWO

SANTA ANA, CALIFORNIA, THURSDAY, JULY 15, 1926

PAGES SEVEN TO TWELVE

IDEAS and Ideals

A. V. NAPIER

There are only a few of us who, when we are gone, will have a public monument erected to our memory. Some of us will never accomplish any great thing that will cause us to be gratefully remembered by posterity, but there is one way in which any of us can leave a monument that will remind coming generations of our thoughtfulness—we can plant a tree.

The trees that are growing in the well developed parts of Southern California make up the principal difference between the desert and "Nature's prolific wonderland." The most interesting and most popular boulevards in California are the ones that are bordered by friendly trees. The most attractive, most cozy-appearing homes in California are those sheltered by large trees. The people who make their living by retail sale of subdivisions will tell you that a subdivision devoid of shade trees is far harder to sell than one well set with trees. One of the foremost attractions of the Pacific coast is the "big tree" district of California. One of the questions most frequently asked by non-resident visitors is: "What kind of tree is that?" People are interested in trees and the more trees we have the more interest people will have in Santa Ana and California.

The oldest living things in the world are the trees. Nobody knows what the life span of a tree may be. We know that the trees planted in Santa Ana by thoughtful pioneers 30 or 40 years ago are much appreciated today. While we are enjoying them it is suggested that we pass the pleasure along by planting trees now where they will do the most good, and thus show following generations that we were inclined to leave the world a little better when we passed this way.

During the recent harbor bonds campaign, I heard a man remark that the harbor project was just another scheme advanced by the real estate men to stimulate the sale of property. Of course, nearly all real estate brokers favored the harbor bonds because their election would increase local land activities, but the men who most aggressively worked for the harbor bonds were land owners, not real estate brokers. The man who I could not understand was, why the man objected to the stimulation of real estate sales. Taking a "dig" at real estate brokers generally seems to be quite popular sport, but the history of Southern California's development is a story of real estate men's activities. A majority of the fortunes that are now held by the older residents of Southern California were made because real estate brokers, through their activities, brought in new people, built new towns and stimulated the sale of real estate generally. The real estate broker, as a specie, may have his faults, but it can be truthfully said for him that he has never deliberately retarded the wheels of progress.

Information On Building Work Available Here

Announcement that data on construction jobs in Orange and other Southern counties is available at the Santa Ana office of the Orange County Builders' exchange was made today by Elmer Schancl, manager, who pointed out that the office is in touch with practically every building job in Southern California. The service is of particular value to the many subcontractors in the county, according to Schancl.

CITY PLANNER PROPOSES SET BACK LINE ON MAIN STREET

State Law Gives Council
Authority in Matter, Says
Dr. Carol Aronovici

WORK TO START
BY SEPTEMBER 1

Widening Will Result in Increased Land Values,
Property Owners Think

A set-back line on all of the residence district on North Main street and a portion of South Main street is contemplated in the plans for the development by Dr. Carol Aronovici, city planning expert, of a general scheme for laying out Santa Ana for future development, according to Stanley Goode, street commissioner on the city council. Goode stated that Dr. Aronovici had pointed out to him that a state law places in the hands of the city council full authority for establishing such a line and enforcing its observance.

Goode's comments were made in connection with the action of the city council Monday night in definitely announcing its intention of widening South Main street, south from First to Edinger street, and repaving the thoroughfare between the two points.

The city in its action is assuming its authority over street property and will take five feet of the parking on each side of the street to increase the width of the paved section from 48 feet to 56 feet. In the opinion of residents on the street favoring the project, widening of the thoroughfare will hasten development of the street as a commercial center, with consequent increase in property values.

According to Nat H. Neff, city engineer, it will be the first of September before the improvement work can start. Legal steps will require this time, he said, in pointing out that a resolution in connection with the proceedings probably will be adopted at the meeting of the council Monday evening.

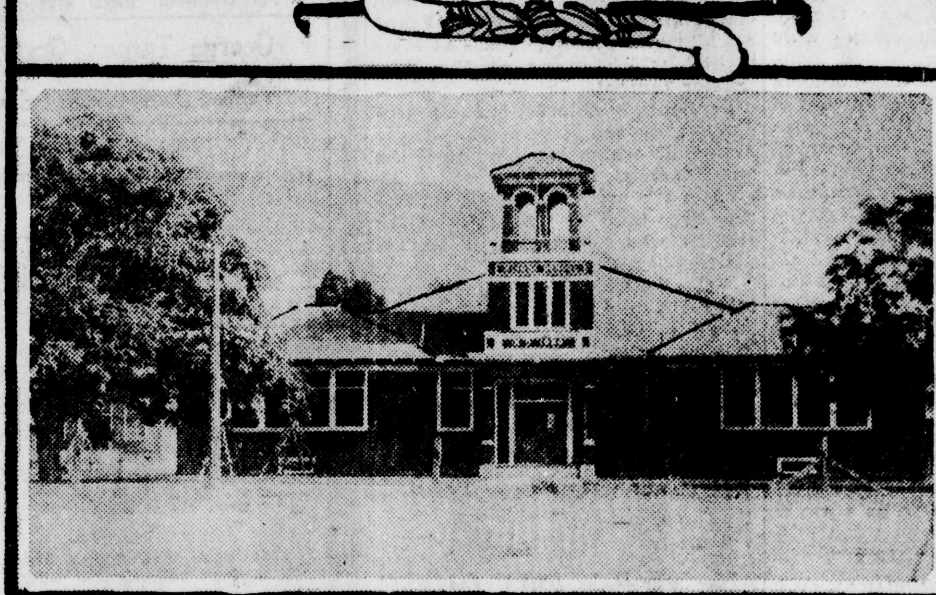

According to estimates made by Neff, it will cost $145,000 to widen and repave the street and install the lighting system. In the widened section, from First to Edinger, the pavement will be laid in three strips, two of them 9 feet wide and one 18 feet, the latter being in the center of the street. The pavement will be 8 inches thick, except for two and a half feet on each side of the two joints made by the method adopted for putting down the concrete.

From Edinger street south to Occidental street, the southern city limits on the east side of the street, the pavement will be rebuilt in the center, the new work replacing the pavement put in by the county in 1918. With the completion of the contemplated work, South Main street will be in good condition south to Delhi road.

Goode today emphasized the point that paving recently done on streets intersecting South Main had been done in accordance with plans for the rewidening of South Main.

The street commissioner also pointed out that the establishment of a set-back line on South Main would obviate the necessity of the council instituting condemnation proceedings should it later be deemed to the best interests of the city to take five feet from properties on the street necessary to increase the width of the parking space and sidewalk.

NEW BUILDING CODE READY FOR TRUSTEES SOON

Orange county is expected to have a uniform building code by the end of summer. The much discussed and much changed code drafted by Mark Cohn, noted San Francisco building authority, at the suggestion of the Orange County Builders' exchange, is now being given a final inspection by the several building inspectors throughout the county.

After the proposed ordinance has gone the rounds of the inspectors, it will be submitted to the city councils of Santa Ana, Fullerton, Anaheim, Huntington Beach, Orange and Newport Beach for adoption. It is believed that the trustees will pass the code with few alterations, considering the number of experts who have had a hand in its creation.

The Santa Ana building inspector, W. S. Decker, has already looked over the code.

Construction experts point out that the time is near when building ordinances all over the United States will be practically the same, subject of course, to local conditions.

It is understood that the contractors plan to submit the proposed code to the Santa Ana trustees within the next few weeks.

Material Office To Be Erected On East Fourth Site

A building material office is to be established in a structure scheduled for erection at 609 East Fourth street. The exhibit will be installed by George Rogers, of 121 Orange avenue. The contract has been let to Sam Heckart, who plans to start construction operations this week. The building will be 12 by 24 feet and will be of tile.

REALTY FIRM NOW LOCATED IN S. A.

The Norins Realty corporation has transferred its offices from Los Angeles to Santa Ana and will be located in the Orange County Bond and Mortgage company's building at Sixth and Main streets. The company will deal in all phases of real estate and ranch development. The officers of the company are M. Norins, president; J. W. Dewey, secretary; L. S. Norins, treasurer; M. L. Reenan, manager of the real estate department.

SPRINKLE WITH THESE
A whisk broom is better than your hand for sprinkling clothes. A small water sprinkler is also effective.

INSTALLATION OF LIGHTS IS PROGRESSING

Work is progressing rapidly on the installation of an ornamental lighting system east from Main street to Grand avenue and it is anticipated that the job will be completed by September 1.

Standards for the system have not reached here yet and the work now is limited to underground installations. Posts have been removed in the old system, extending from Main street east to Mortimer street, and as a consequence, that portion of the business street is in darkness at night, except for the light furnished by lamps in display windows of business houses.

BUILDERS' QUERIES ANSWERED

By Southern California Chapter, Associated General Contractors of America

Q: Will you please inform me what color would be best for the outside of an English type cottage?

A: Dark shades are most common among English type cottages. We would suggest that you use either a dark brown or a dark red brick shade on the roof and dark gray or brown on the sides.

Q: Will you please advise me if there is a paint that will act as an insulator when applied to galvanized sheet iron?

A: Most of the reliable paint dealers handle a product that will suit your needs. It is known as "insulating paint" and "insulating varnish."

Q: Please inform me of the estimated cost to paint a five-room cottage? The dwelling has frame sides, back and stucco front.

A: When giving an estimate for painting, we must know the quality of paint to be used and the number of square feet to be covered. Any reputable painter will be glad to submit an estimate.

Q: How many pounds of pure white lead will be required to paint a house three coats? The house is 26 by 36 feet.

A: You have not given the height of the walls to be painted. The following is a good rule to follow when estimating the quantity of paint required: Divide the number of square feet to be painted by 18. The result will be the number of pounds of pure ground lead required to give three coats.

Q: How many shingles will be required to roof a house 24 by 32 feet?

A: As you have not given the pitch of the roof or the projection of the eaves we cannot answer your question. One thousand shingles, laid four inches to the weather, will cover 100 square feet of surface. Five pounds of shingle nails will be required to fasten them.

Q: In stucco construction, when sheathing is used, would you advise placing the boards diagonally or horizontally?

A: Sheathing should be not less than six inches nor more than eight inches wide, dressed one or both sides to a uniform thickness or 13-16 of an inch and nailed horizontally with eight penny nails. Test made by the bureau of standards, Washington, during 1915 and 1916, demonstrated conclusively that diagonal sheathing tends to crack overlying stucco by setting up strains in the supporting frame. The result is undoubtedly due to the shrinkage of the sheathing, and whatever benefit might be anticipated from the more effective bracing provided by diagonal sheathing appears to be more than offset by the shrinkage effect. Diagonal sheathing is also less economical than horizontal sheathing both in material and labor.

World's Record for Deep
Well Sought by Drillers;
Land Is Worth Millions

Nearly 30 years ago, the Santa Fe Railway company, with Edward Doherty, then a young man struggling for a foothold in the oil world, in charge of drilling operations, spudded in its first well in the district now known as Olinda. The first wells were drilled to depths varying from 500 to 1500 feet and a fine grade of crude oil produced. From this small and crude beginning, Olinda has been developed into one of the richest oil spots in Southern California.

Drill Deep Wells
With the demand for crude oil urging the greatest efforts of petroleum engineers and geologists all over the world, wells in this district are now being drilled far beyond the 5000 foot level, at which place a rich sand has been proven in many locations throughout this district. A test well now being drilled on the Chanslor-Canfield Midway Oil company's property at Olinda will be drilled to 8000 feet. This well set a world's record.

Company Aids Town

The Chanslor-Canfield Midway company, known as the Santa Fe Oil company, more than any other company represented there, has been responsible for the splendid growth and development of Olinda. The company maintains a general store and filling station for the accommodation of its employees and other citizens, as well as its own garage, machine and blacksmith shops, carpenter shop, etc. The entire production of this company, which since the beginning of its development has been nearly 17,000,000 barrels of fine grade oil, is used by the Santa Fe Railway company. Ninety producing wells are listed and the output of gas is 1,500,000 cubic feet per day.

Topping Plant in Operation

The Santa Fe Railway company has a branch road in Olinda and the shipment of oil over it from the various companies are many carloads each month. The Olinda gasoline company maintains a large plant for the production of high purity gasoline, the output averaging 3000 gallons a day. The General Petroleum corporation has a topping plant in the district for the production of low grade gasoline and distillate. Other companies represented in Olinda are the Union, Shell, Fullerton, Olinda Land and Water and the Associated, most of which maintain garages and shops of various kinds in the district.

120 On Payroll

The Chanslor-Canfield Midway Oil company has 120 employees on its payroll, most of whom reside in Olinda. This company has developed a splendid water system and has installed electric lights on the streets and in the homes of its employees. Beside these conveniences...

It May Have Been the Coffee, Dearie!

It's a long story. Blue pencilled it graphs something like this:

After a rather long auto trip we had seen so many people along the roadside changing tires, that that night we had a nightmare. This dream brought all those tire-troubled people into our place of business. Every one demanded justice. Things looked bad. Nightmares ride rough, you know.

Tenny rate, we woke. The glorious stars sweetly twinkled and we thought we heard soft music. Everything was lovely. We kicked that nightmare on the seventh 14 and finished our sleep on the guaranteed basis. Beats a sealy all to pieces.

When you are fully awake, let us attire you with tires so when you retire you have no trading nightmares go riding down your sleep lanes.

STANDARD SIX SEDAN

An Ideal Family Car

It is hardly conceivable that this Standard Six Sedan with all the refinements so unusual to its price class should sell so low as $1295. Yet it simply reflects the advantage of Studebaker's vast resources for combining quality and economy. It is notable, too, that twenty-eight Sedans of lesser horsepower rating sell for more—many at double $1535 its price.

STAGE AND SCREEN

Bebe Daniels and Lawrence Gray in a scene from "The Palm Beach Girl," the picture opening at the Yost Broadway theater tonight.

OLINDA FAMED AS RICH BLACK GOLD DISTRICT

niences are natural gas and a splendid sewerage system. Olinda lies high and dry on soft rolling hills on the Carbon canyon road to Pomona, Ontario and San Bernardino and is within three miles of La Brea Springs, one of the best mineral springs in Southern California. The town is eight miles from Fullerton, 10 from Anaheim, four miles east of Brea and within an hour's pleasant ride of the beach towns of Orange county.

School System Modern

This little city has a splendid grammar school system with fine school buildings that would do credit to a much larger community. A manual training shop, cafeteria and an auditorium seating 400 persons, and of which the district is justly proud, are features of the school system. The stage of this auditorium is 20x22 feet and the stage curtains and all scenery shifts were hand painted with views familiar to Olinda by G. W. Cullen, clerk of the Olinda grammar school board and of the newly organized Brea-Olinda Union high school board. Mr. Cullen, who has long been associated with the Chanslor-Canfield Midway Oil company as storekeeper, is an ardent worker and booster for Olinda. Two churches are represented in this town and there is also a social hall where various kinds of meetings are held and where dancing is provided for those who enjoy it. With the completion of the new $320,000 Brea-Olinda union high school, bids for which are now out and to be let on July 19, students in Olinda who have finished the grade schools will be provided with one of the handsomest and best equipped schools in Southern California. The new building is to be located on East Birch street at a point agreed upon by the voters of both school districts.

Land Values High

The value of property in Olinda is placed very high and will run into the millions of dollars, as it is all potential oil property. It is almost entirely owned or leased by the oil companies named above. Olinda lays claim to some little distinction as having been for many years the home of Joe Burke, well known recent federal judge in this district. Walter Johnson, hailed by all Olinda as the greatest baseball pitcher the world has ever known, also spent his early boyhood and some of his young manhood in this community. Emulating the trend of this distinguished pitcher, Olinda has always been a community of enthusiastic baseball fans and now has what the citizens declare is the best amateur club in Southern California, all of the members are employees of the Chanslor-Canfield Midway Oil company, chief among whom is "Bob" Isbell, chief clerk for the company.

The several oil companies in the district are represented as follows: Associated Oil company, E. C. Curtis, superintendent; D. M. Merrill, storekeeper; Olinda Land and Water company, J. O. Conn, superintendent; Union Oil company, A. H. Browne, superintendent; Chanslor-Canfield Midway Oil company, J. T. Harryman, superintendent; G. W. Cullen, storekeeper; William Sinclair and H. R. Williams, foreman.

BUENA PARK NEWS

BUENA PARK, July 15.—The Sunday school board met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Spohn Tuesday night. The Sunday school picnic, new song books, Sunday school literature and other matters were discussed. After the business session, the hostess served ice cream and cake. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bastady, Mrs. G. S. Davis, Margie Lee, Mildred Bacon and Lillian Bastady, Carl Bastady, Mrs. H. H. Haggarty, George Cole, Mrs. J. B. Robison and Mr. and Mrs. Spohn. C. E. Hendrix is going to build a house for himself on his lot on Park avenue in the Mennet tract. The foundation has already been laid. Mrs. Deets was a shopper in Los Angeles Monday morning. Mr. and Mrs. Justin Spohn were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Porter in Fullerton Wednesday.

WEST COAST WALKER

Lionel Barrymore and Henry Walthall sat around between scenes and talked about those good old days in pictures when all actors were chummy and there were no stars.

They were both playing featured roles in "The Girl Who Wouldn't Work," which closes at the West Coast-Walker tonight. It was their first appearance together in a picture for many years, since the old Biograph days, when they were with D. W. Griffith.

In those days the top-notchers drew about the same salary that is now paid to a first-class extra player. But they were days of many pictures and many parts and offered the greatest dramatic schooling in the world. A leading man one day, a villain the next, a juvenile or a character man. It was necessary to be able to play any kind of a part. Today the greatest players in the business are among those who began their picture work in the old Biograph days. Walthall's interpretation of the "Little Colonel" in "The Birth of a Nation" is still talked about as one of the finest characterizations ever seen on the screen. Barrymore is one of the foremost actors of both the screen and the legitimate stage.

YOST BROADWAY THEATER

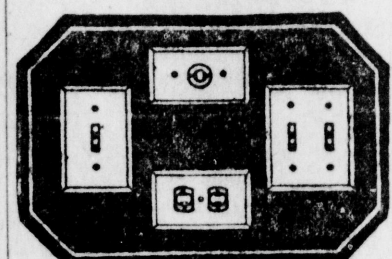

For a bill of unusual entertainment, scintillating with humor, clever bits of dancing, funny stories and appealing musical selections, the coming program of vaudeville at the Yost Broadway is all that any seeker of variety entertainment can desire.

Headlining this meritorious array of acts is the comedian-monologist, Neil McKinley, an entertainer of big-time caliber. Equipped with a splendid singing voice, McKinley accompanies it with a number of clever song numbers, aided by a host of smart stories of late vintage.

The Pompadour revue, a company consisting of four young girls and a trig young man, will offer a blend of youth, melody and laughter under the billing of "Romance." "Romance" tells a story in song, music and dance, of the early sixties.

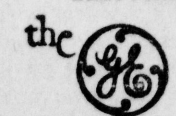

Canary Opera, presented by Joseph Belmont and Mary Fulton, is a novelty that features a number of feathered songsters. Belmont, at the piano, sings, and Miss Fulton sings and plays a flute. This music leads up to the singing of the canaries. There are two dozen or more cages with the song birds and they quickly take up their "cue" from the music of the two humans who present the act.

lyn Delmar, will enliven the program considerably with their comedy and harmony songs. Joann Falcay, "twisting marvel," a talented and attractive young woman will present an unique and artistic novelty in contortion and physical control.

YOST THEATER

Modern Paris—gay, glittering, care-free, voluptuous—has been transplanted to the screen in Frances Marion's picture, "Paris at Midnight," which opens at the Yost theater tonight.

Particularly colorful is the reproduction of the spectacular Beaux Arts Ball, which has long been the most famous annual event of its kind in the world. The largest setting ever built at the Metropolitan studios was designed and erected for this brilliant scene.

Jetta Goudal, Lionel Barrymore, Mary Brian and Edmund Burns have the featured roles, while in the supporting cast are Emile Chautard, Mathilde Comont, Jocelyn Lee, Brandon Hurst, Carrie Daumery, Fanny Yantis and Jean de Briac.

FULLERTON DESK SERGEANT QUILTS

Roy Green, desk sergeant on the Fullerton police force for the past two years, tendered his resignation to Police Chief T. K. Winter today. This marks the fourth resignation in as many weeks.

Chief Winter was instructed several weeks ago by the Fullerton trustees that he should effect changes in his staff.

FIT STYLE WEAR

Who Wears Tailor Made Clothes and Why?

The men who wear clothes, measured and made to and for them and not busheled, are men who have done more than "just get by." They lead in the professions and businesses in which they work.

Draw your own conclusions. But the reasons are apparent. These men know more than what the surface shows. They buy real clothes because of two reasons, mainly:

First—DISTINCTION.
Second—ECONOMY.

$40 Hosiery Too Costly In Paris

PARIS, July 15.—A pair of silk stockings adorned with a certain amount of embroidery occupies a whole window in a big Paris store. The price of this work of art is 1250 francs. French passersby note the sum and at once convert it into dollars as they declare nobody but an American woman could or would pay $40 for a pair of stockings.

SHORT SLANTS
ON STUDEBAKER SERVICE

Specialized tools are required to handle service with precision, speed and economy. We have invested in tools and machinery designed especially to service Studebaker cars. Their use saves our mechanics hours of time and Studebaker owners many dollars in service cost.

No car built today requires less service than Studebaker, no car enjoys finer service. Think of that when you buy.

Genuine Studebaker
Parts

Do not use inferior parts in your Studebaker car. Studebaker cars are UNIT-BUILT—their parts are UNIT-BUILT, they are put through rigid tests equal to the strains and hardships of the average automobile. If they do not stand up under these tests, they are thrown out—and a special group of picked men see to it that they are discarded. Use Genuine Studebaker parts and your car will function perfectly. We carry one of the largest and most complete stocks of Studebaker parts in Southern California.

BERLENBACH AND DELANEY CLASH TONIGHT

CHICAGO FANS
FOR MCCARTHY.
NEW CUB PILOT

CHICAGO, July 15.—As a general rule baseball managers usually become well-known to ball players and fans in the cities where they are hired even before they report for work.

But Chicago, at present, has a perfect example of that axiom about taking an exception to prove any rule. Such an example is Joe McCarthy, new Cub manager, who came direct from the minors to take charge of a major league baseball team.

They don't know Joe in Chicago yet. But they do know this: He has taken what, on paper, looks like one of the worst teams in the league and whipped it into a fighting aggregation that is feared all over the league.

Here's a general summing up that one might get out of most any person connected with McCarthy:

"I don't know much about Joe, but he's sure got it when it comes to bossing a ball club. Look what he's done with the Cubs."

One of Joe's greatest assets seems to be his power to instill fight into his men. He has them hopping from the word go—even the boys riding the bench. In connection with the latter Joe has introduced something new. He has a manager for them. The manager is Mike Dolan. Its Mike's job to see that there is plenty of "pep" on the bench.

One reason that they don't know so much about McCarthy yet is his seeming disregard for any publicity. An instance of this occurred in a Philadelphia hotel the other day.

A reporter met him in the lobby. "Any news?" he asked Joe.

"No, nothing yet, except I have suspended Alexander indefinitely."

Grove, of Philadelphia, the leading strikeout pitcher in the American league last year, lost more games than he won, while Vance, who is leading the league in strikeouts this season, is credited with having won only one game in six starts. All of which seems to show that strikeouts do not always have much bearing on winning baseball games.

NEW YORK.—John Heydler, president of the National league, has refused to order a re-play of the Pittsburgh-Boston game played May 5 and protested by the Braves.

TRADITION OF
DIAMOND SAYS
YANKEES, REDS

By PAUL W. WHITE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, July 15.—The tradition that the two major league clubs leading on July 4 will win the pennants is none too robust. But despite the fact that only rarely has it been true, it persists and is hailed out for comment each year.

This year the glorious Fourth found the New York Yankees in first place in the American league by a 10-game margin, one of the greatest leads amassed by any club in recent years. The National league race was more taut, with the Cincinnati Reds only three and a half games ahead of the champion Pittsburgh Pirates.

So vast is the lead of the Yankees that Manager Miller Huggins now can look ahead to defensive fight. Even with Messel and Hoy on the injured list and Ruth and Dugan still unsteady from injuries, the Huggman should cop if they win barely more than half their games. No team has yet stepped forth with an authentic challenge. Chicago, Detroit, Philadelphia, Washington and Cleveland—all have strength to finish above the .500 mark but they have been so busy cutting the throats of one another that the Yankees have sailed along complacently with no harsh doubts about the future.

It might be well to compare the Yankees with a boxer who in the early rounds has piled up such a lead in points that he can afford to hold off his opponent until the clanging of the final bell.

Contemplation of the National league situation, on the other hand, increases the suspicion that the senior circuit is set for one of the tightest races in its history.

The Reds, Pirates and Cardinals all have class and the Robins, Cubs and Giants are sufficiently close to wreck nervous systems as the August and September "crucial series" come.

Another disastrous trip such as the Reds encountered last month would mean the end of Cincinnati hopes. But with great pitching and credible strength afield and at bat there is no reason to believe that the Reds will hit another severe slump.

Failure of the Pirates and Giants to take advantage of openings in such a loose race has been the outstanding surprise of the baseball season. They have played poorly at the same time that the Reds and Cardinals were faltering.

The late Christy Mathewson was one of the first college baseball stars to win fame in the major leagues. Since Matty's day there have been many prominent major leaguers who have graduated from the college diamond. Among those of the present time are included such noted players as Speaker, Slater, Fitch, Mogridge, Collins, Gehrig, Carey, Zachary and Donohue.

The final stages find him out in front leading the attack, that a popular suspicion exists that he actually prefers to let the fellow get away in front. This certainly doesn't seem to bother him.

Yet I recall that he was genuinely happy when he finished eight or nine holes ahead of Jones in the first half of their match in Florida last winter.

Someone suggested that his position was unusual. "You'd probably feel more natural if you were three or four holes down, wouldn't you, Walter?" he was asked.

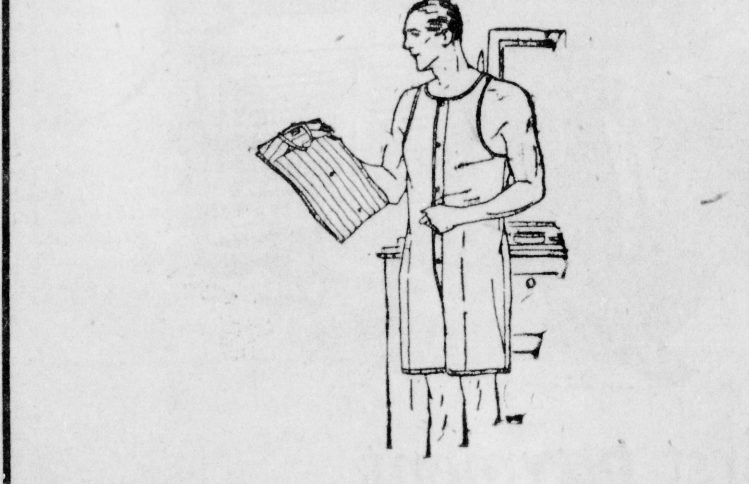

"Don't make me laugh," answered Hagen. "Anytime I can get the lead I'm going to take it. I wish I was 15 up on Bobby."

You may be interested further in knowing that as a teacher Hagen advised his pupils to learn with the putter first and then advance by degrees to the distance getting clubs. His theory is that control of the ball is the first essential.

Hagen has a pair of remarkable eyes. I once heard them described as "yard-stick eyes." This is a tribute to his uncanny accuracy in judging distance, especially on the greens. When the stakes are large Hagen won't miss the cup more than an inch or so from any distance.

What happens if the batsman in swinging at ball for third strike misses, but the ball strikes his person and eludes the catcher? Have runners the right to advance? . . .

The batsman is out, if in taking a third strike he misses the ball, same coming into contact with his person.

The ball immediately becomes dead when such a thing happens and no bases can be run.

The umpire should immediately call the batsman out. If any runners advanced, due to the fact the ball eluded the catcher, he should send them back to their original bases.

In such a play, the batsman is always out and no bases can be run.

The Fort Worth Cats, winners of six consecutive Texas league pennants under the guiding hand of Jake Atz, are meeting with very stiff opposition in their efforts to make it seven in a row. Recently they have been headed in the race by Dallas, San Antonio and Beaumont.

Piping 'Em Off

Yesterday's hero—Lou Gehrig, whose triple, scoring Ruth, gave the Yanks a 7 to 6 victory over Detroit in the 12th inning. New York scored five runs with two out in the ninth, tying the score.

Cincinnati made it three straight by defeating Philadelphia, 5 to 1. Cleveland was chased to the showers and he and Morrell yielded 13 safe hits, thereby allowing Chicago a 10 to 2 decision over Washington.

Babe Herman misjudged a fly and the Cardinals went into the lead but before the session was over the same Herman singled, enabling Brooklyn to win, 5 to 2.

The Giants took a double header from Pittsburgh by scores of 12 to 8 and 5 to 2.

Four runs in the first inning gave Boston sufficient lead and Chicago was defeated, 6 to 4.

STECHER WINS
FROM LUTZE.
RETAINS TITLE

LOS ANGELES, July 15.—Champion Joe Stecher took a fall out of Nick Lutze on the Olympic auditorium mat last night, but it took the champion two hours to win the one-fall match from the young contender who waged a spectacular battle.

With a year's experience it is conceded that Lutze will be one of Stecher's serious contenders. The challenger showed aggressiveness and strength. His most effective hold was an arm scissors, while Stecher gave most of his punishment with toe holds.

Lutze, time and again broke Stecher's favorite hold, the body scissors, although he suffered gruelling punishment in doing so. Finding himself blocked at his most favored method of attack Stecher switched to a series of toe-holds. Lutze pulled through this crises without suffering a fall.

Lutze did plenty of damage to the champion with a heavy arm scissors. Four times he had Stecher writhing from an arm and wrist lock. The first fall came suddenly after Lutze had applied five successive flying headlocks and had the champion staggering. When Lutze rushed in to finish the job Stecher clamped on his body scissors and brought Lutze to the mat. He pinned Lutze down in one minute.

Gardini disposed of Frank Klee in eight minutes and fifty seconds. In the curtain raiser Stanley Pinta wrestled to a draw with Sailor Hitesman.

Light Heavies Battle

NEW YORK, July 15.—Paul Berlenbach, world's light heavyweight champion and Jack Delaney were within the weight limit when they weighed in at 2 o'clock this afternoon for their championship battle scheduled for Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, tonight. Berlenbach's weight was announced at 174 1-4 and Delaney's at 166 1-2.

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
NEW YORK, July 15.—Science against the sock, a subject as widely debated and as undecided as the ancient arguments about brain against brawn and age against youth, will be put to a crowd of about 45,000 spectators tonight when Paul Berlenbach, the reformed wrestler, and Jack Delaney, the French-Canadian sharpshooter, meet for the world's light-heavyweight championship.

No contest since the memorable battle between Jack Dempsey and Luis Firpo has aroused the interest that the ticket sales have evidenced in this meeting between the brawny champion and the brainy challenger.

Humbert Fugazy, who is promoting the fight, said today that all the choice reserved seats had been sold and that a crowd as large as the fire department would allow to enter the Brooklyn baseball park is assured.

$400,000 "Gate" Expected
He estimated that the receipts would reach $400,000, from which Berlenbach probably will receive a cut of about $125,000 as the champion, and Delaney about $38,000 as the challenger.

Delaney, because of the knock-out he scored over Berlenbach about three years ago, the report of examining physicians that he was in much better physical condition than he was when Berlenbach outpointed him on their second meeting, and the hope that his boxing skill will overcome the devastating punches of the champion, was a 6 to 5 favorite in the betting. But there was plenty of Berlenbach money in the market.

While virtually all of the critics have picked Delaney as the winner, the writer is inclined to string along with Berlenbach. The champion is far more experienced than he was when he was knocked out the first time by Delaney and he has had more work against hard opponents since he won the second fight.

"Berly" Easy to Hit
Those who favor Delaney base their opinions largely on the admitted fact that Berlenbach is mitted fact that the challenger is easy to reach with a right hand punch and that the challenger has one of the fastest and most accurate right hands in the ring today.

Delaney, no doubt, will be able to hit Berlenbach with his right hand, but it is to be doubted that he can stop the rugged champion with one punch and the longer they are in the ring, the more punishment Delaney will have to take.

The question of weight may have something to do with it. Delaney probably will weigh at a natural fighting weight of about 172 pounds and will be strong at that weight.

Berlenbach will have to dry out to make 175 pounds and it may weaken him and make him sluggish.

Perks entered the water at midnight with Lillian Cannon and Gertrude Ederle, the American girls, interested observers of the first channel attempt of the year. Perks was among the channel aspirants of 1925.

WAY TO CHECK ACCIDENT TOLL TOPIC AT MEET

WASHINGTON, July 15.—Hope that the annual toll of industrial accidents in the United States can be lowered from the present 23,000 lives and 2,500,000 injuries, was expressed by President Coolidge, in a message to the opening session of the industrial accident prevention conference here.

The president's letter, read by Chairman Elwell Stewart, labor statistics commissioner and chairman of the conference, asserted that there was great room for improvement along safety lines, if those who hold that 85 per cent of these accidents are preventable are even approximately right.

Twenty-one states and several scores of industrial organizations were represented at the conference, called by Secretary of Labor Davis to devise plans for cutting down the accident rate, as the iron and steel industry has done. In 15 years, fatal accidents in that industry have dropped 65 per cent and non-fatal accidents 85 per cent.

Collection and analysis of statistics to determine the causes of accidents and means for their prevention is the way to solve the problem, Davis, Stewart and other labor department leaders told the conference. What the labor department has done for the steel industry, it can do for all industries, they said.

Stewart's division started collecting labor casualty reports from the iron and steel industry in 1907 and began recommendations in 1911. Its safety measures have cost the United States Steel corporation $15,700,000, but this has been met almost dollar for dollar by a $15,000,000 saving through decreases in the damage rate.

The number of lives saved is 46,000 Stewart said. The number of injuries is 322,000.

DOG WAITING AT JAIL FOR MASTER SOFTENS OFFICER'S HEART AND MAN IS FREED

Claude Edgar, 42, of Bellflower, has a dog and because the dog was faithful to his master, even after the iron bars of the county jail had closed in on him, yesterday, the man is today free.

Edgar was arrested by F. G. Yoder, state officer, when he found him driving an automobile on North Main street. Yoder booked Edgar at the jail for investigation, for the purpose of holding him while a check was made on his automobile to prove ownership.

It seems that there was only one license plate on the machine, that it was a 1925 plate, and that it was one issued in Arkansas. On top of that, there was no registration card in the car, the officer said.

When Edgar walked into the jail, his dog, a Shepherd, followed close on his heels. They took the dog's master behind a number of iron doors, a place a dog had never been, so the dog, not wishing to venture inside or probably prevented by jailers, lay down in front of jail doors and there she remained.

Throughout the night, the vigil was maintained. When a prisoner or an officer went in or out, the dog raised her head, expectant, then lowered it, in disappointment.

Edgar had no money and when he was taken inside the jail, no provision was made for the dog. So, today, Yoder released his prisoner so that care may be taken of the dog.

As Edgar walked out of the jail, he was met by his overjoyed jail, which during the night had crept to the second iron door and pushed his head through the gating.

Jailers fed the dog last night and early today and as she shoved and nudged in front of the hungry animal in front of the hungry animal, he was heard to remark: "I mal, he was heard to remark: 'I wonder if the dog went to jail, would the man be as faithful?'"

State officers still are holding Edgar's automobile. He will be required to show ownership before he can drive it again, they say.

GREEK ROYALTY IS SCATTERED OVER EUROPE

BRITISH WETS PLAN ARMADA AGAINST U. S.

BUCHAREST, July 15.—Refugee kings, queens, princes and princesses from the revolutionary-ridden Balkan countries are scattered over Europe like flying human debris.

Many of them have landed in Bucharest. Those who failed to snatch a few crown jewels or a treasure of gold before their flight from their native countries are having a pretty thin time of it. They are living on the charity of relatives and friends.

Former King George, of Greece, who, like his father, Constantine, found the kinging business a precarious and short-lived occupation, has been living off his mother-in-law, Queen Marie, of Rumania, as is also his wife, Elizabeth.

Although he still signs himself "George Rex," he is said to possess little beyond his wardrobe and monocle. The fact that he once was a king made him very popular with the American colony in Bucharest, who invited him frequently to dinners and dances.

Goes to Denmark

Believing that his stay at the Bucharest palace had become too onerous a burden for Queen Marie, who herself has her wayward son, Carol, and his dispossessed wife to support, young George left recently for Denmark, where he has other hospitable royal relatives. His wife, Elizabeth, has gone to France, where she will divide her falling fortunes with another evicted woman sovereign, her mother-in-law, former Queen Sophie of Greece, widow of King Constantine and sister of Kaiser Wilhelm.

Elizabeth apparently has not lacked any of the material things of life, for, if increased weight be a criterion of good living, it may be remarked that she has almost doubled in size.

Sophie is being supported by her nephew, young William. Leeds. Her brother-in-law, Prince Christopher, who also inherits a pile of American dollars through the death of his late wife, Mrs. William B. Leeds, also seems to find that Sophie lacks as a refugee nothing that she enjoyed as a queen.

Many Married Money

Many of these deposed bluebloods have "married money," and therefore need not worry about where tomorrow's meal is coming from.

By the Greek government, Prince Andrew, brother of ex-King Constantine, dismissed in disgrace for the failure of his army in Asia Minor, is allowed to retain his property in Greece, from which he derives enough revenue on which to subsist comfortably. The same is true of Prince Nicholas, his brother. Others of the family, however, are dependent on the generosity of relatives or affluent friends.

The only Greek prince, apparently, who has learned to labor and to earn, is young Prince Paul, youngest son of the late King Constantine, who recently was in the United States and who now is employed by a London commercial house as a promoter. He also has been helped greatly by young Leeds, who married Paul's cousin, Princess Xenia, of Greece.

Illinois Sheriff Is Model Prisoner

CHICAGO, July 15.—Sheriff Peter M. Hoffman has completed his 30 days' sentence and was released from the DuPage county jail, to be greeted by many friends.

"A perfect prisoner," was the way Jailer Allen A. Myers referred to Sheriff Hoffman. Hoffman went to jail because of excessive liberties accorded Terry Druggan and Frank Lake, bootleggers.

THE STORY OF EDGAR ALLEN POE

BY REDNER

After Helen's death, Poe's next sentimental attachment was with Sarah Elmira Royster, his young neighbor. In this affection for Sarah, who was a girl of 16, Poe found solace for the grief caused by Helen's death. But the elder Royster disapproved of the match and took every step to prevent it.

Sarah's father used to intercept Poe's letters because he did not like their poetic tone. He forbade his daughter to see Poe.

Sarah was married at the age of 17, and young Poe was left poetically disconsolate again.

In 1825 Mr. Allan came into the fortune of an uncle. It is believed that Poe's spendthrift habits began from that time. Poe so abused his guardian's new wealth that Mr. Allan soon took him to task. Poe was prepared by tutors for entrance in the University of Virginia, and Feb. 14, he began his new duties there. (Continued.)

He drove and never cursed his luck, The ball was straight and true, And far, Later that musical ker-chuck Gave him a par.

FRECKLES

Mid-July is a trying time for the girl with a sensitive complexion. She probably will not be able to prevent a certain amount of freckles and sunburn, she will have to console herself by thinking that a certain amount is becoming. But too many freckles and a thick coat of tan are not becoming, so every dressing table should contain at least one good skin bleach.

An old-fashioned formula which I have never tried but which comes to me highly recommended is the following: Take half a pint of emulsion of almonds and slowly beat into it one-half dram of simple tincture of benzoin. This can be used freely all over the face, hands, neck and arms, the best time to apply it being just after exposure to the sun. If you have been out in the sunlight for a long time a good treatment immediately on coming in is to wash the face in cold water or to cover it with cold water com- pressed, a tablespoonful of alcohol or witch hazel being added to a very small basinful of water. Another simple treatment which few people know about is to add a tablespoonful of glycerine to a pint of water and to wash the face and hands with this. This makes the skin white and soft, soothes irritation and helps bleach both sunburn and freckles.

Still another skin bleach particularly good for freckles is made of equal parts of glycerine, peroxide of hydrogen and witch hazel. Keep this

Mrs. C. F. E.—There is no way for you to make the white streak in your hair black unless you dye it. Stray hairs may be made wholly inconspicuous through henna, and when they are brushed into the rest of the hair, they are not seen, no matter what the natural shade of the hair is. If you could distribute these hairs so that they are not massed together, you could use henna on them and they would not show.

COURAGE IS BETTER THAN SAFETY

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

One day, a caller asked the woman upon whom she was calling how many children she had.

"Just a minute, please," said the mistress of the house, summoning a maid. "Where are the boys, Jane?" she asked. "They were not here when I came in. And Miss Nettie, where is she?"

"Ted has gone in Dick Burton's canoe," announced Jane. "Oliver is out in the races and said to tell you he wouldn't be home for dinner. And James went swimming over near Blue Falls. I don't know where Miss Nettie went, but she had on her riding suit at luncheon and I heard her talking on the phone about a new horse the Morrisons have. I think she's over there."

"Thank you, Jane, that will do," said the lady calmly. Then turning to her guest she remarked, "I don't know how many children I have. I had four this morning."

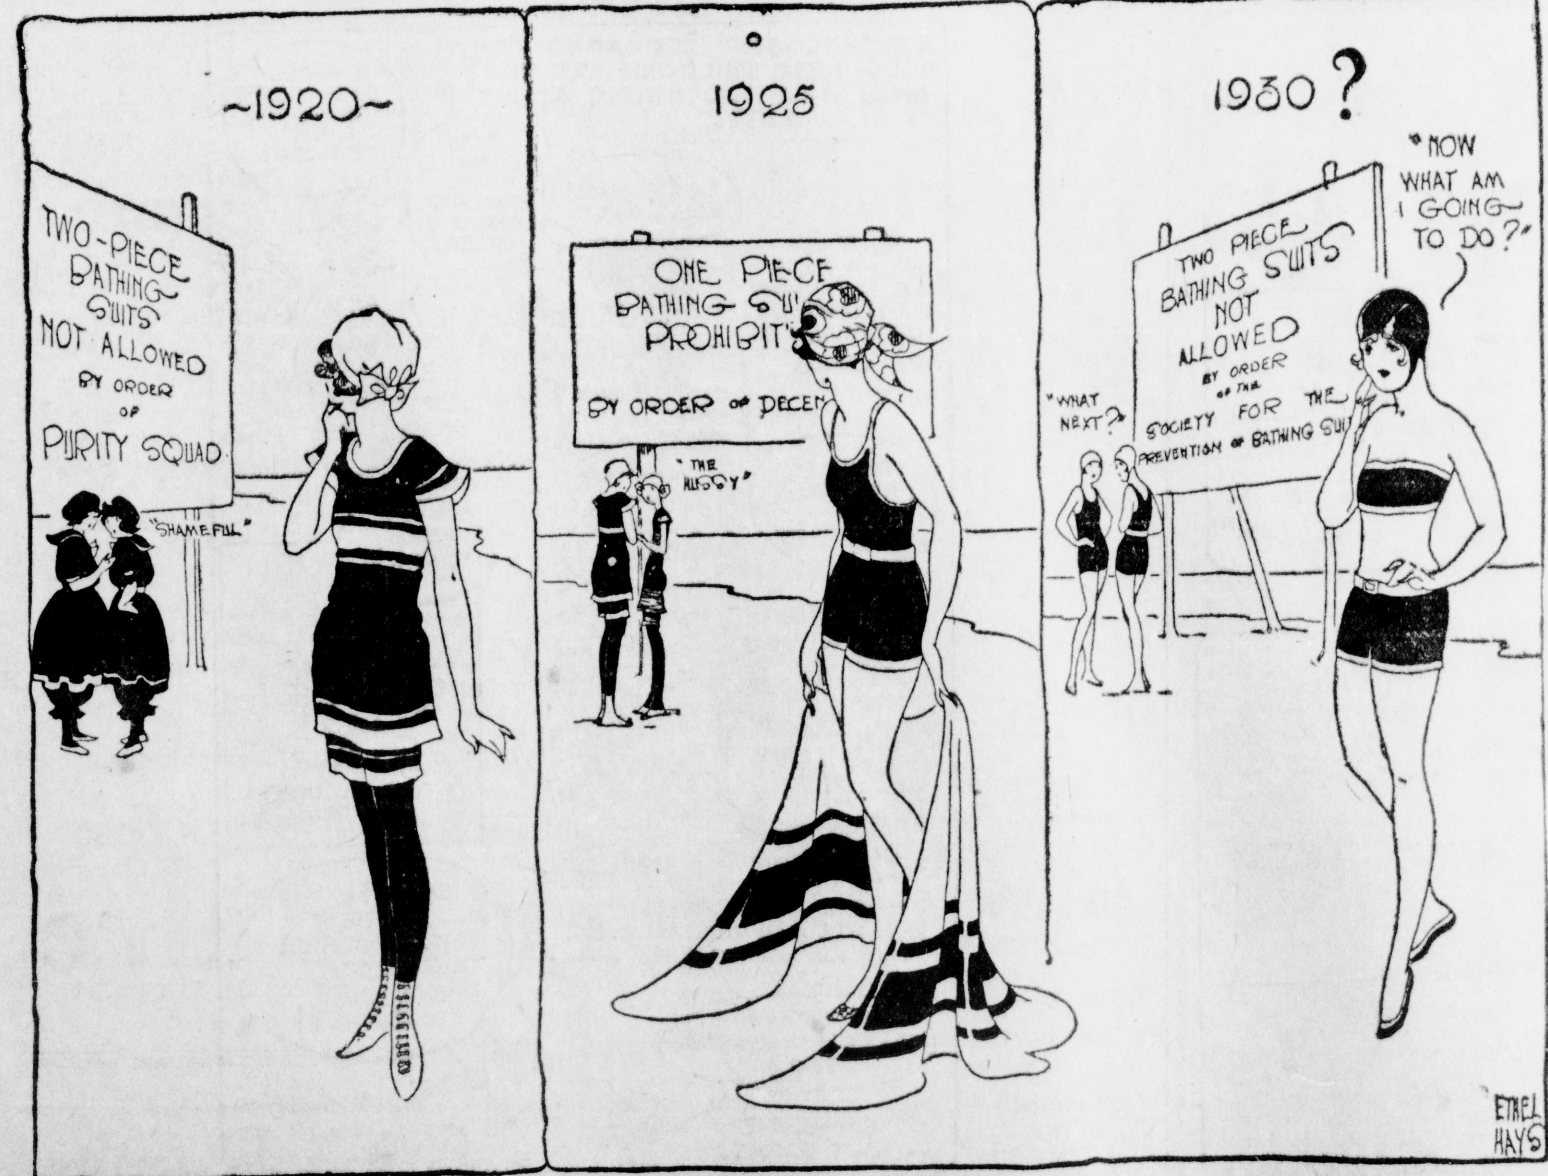

"For goodness sake!" exclaimed the guest. "What a remarkable woman you are! I should think you would be worried to death."

"Why?" remarked the hostess. "Because we live in a world of danger? I can't bottle my children up; I can't stop the mad urge of youth or the times; and I don't know that I would if I could. The fearlessness of young people seems to carry them through. A few will get bumped—or broken, but the majority will come out unscathed."

Meta Married a Santa Claus

BY VIRGINIA SWAIN
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, July 14.—Meta Schlichting's husband-to-be used to make her stand in the corner.

She was 9 and a tow-headed, pin-afored imp. He was 21 and a serious young school teacher, to whom the beauties of the German language and literature, the grandeur of Beethoven and the magic of Shakespeare were life's greatest concerns.

His name was Victor Berger—destined to become a storm center of American socialism and an object of violent love and violent hatred in the Great War.

But when Meta Schlichting used to stand before him lisping "Ich bin, du bist, er ist," in German class, he was a young dreamer, idealist and esthete, untroubled by politics or controversy.

Was Santa Claus He taught German in the Milwaukee schools, and spent his spare time reading and attending concerts and holding long discussions with his fellow intellectuals upon the theories of a Utopian socialist state.

His Saturday afternoons he gave to these students who wished to read Goethe and Schiller with him. At Christmas time, his sleigh made its way through the narrow streets, leaving a gift book at the home of every pupil in his class. There are hundreds of middle-aged men and women in whose memory Victor Berger lingers as a rosy, gentle-voiced Santa Claus in the old tradition.

Meta was in her teens when her father died, leaving his family in straitened circumstances. School teachers tried to help Mrs. Schlichting by patronizing her boarding house table.

Victor Berger was particularly anxious to help the little family. His wife insists that during those hungry years he often left his pie or cake so she and her sister, who waited on table, might have a taste of sweet.

Escort to Theater His interest in the two girls continued into their young ladyhood. He was acting as dramatic critic for one of the city papers, and he arranged to take Meta and her sister to the theater in turns.

This system worked admirably so long as no strong emotion than comradeship prevailed.

Then one night he told Meta that she had had more than her share, and he meant to take her sister twice in succession, to make up to his amazement Meta balked.

"You'll either take me in my turn or you needn't ever take me again," she told him. She won.

Meta was teaching in the elementary schools when they were married Dec. 4, 1897. Berger was doing newspaper work, writing, reading and widening the activities of the socialist group.

Meta's early married life was strenuous with Victor's plans and enthusiasm and heart-breaking efforts to bring in the millenium of the socialist state.

At first she went to his meetings with him, but they were held in dark, stuffy back rooms of saloons and rickety halls, and she shrank

Mrs. Meta Berger, and below, Victor Berger

from the laborers who attended. "I didn't sympathize because I didn't understand," she says. "I resented Victor's leaving me at home night after night to meet with ignorant, coarse men whom he was trying to help."

But once my prejudices of gentility were conquered, I began to see his vision. I'm as good a socialist now as he is."

Have Two Daughters Two daughters were born during these first, dark years. Doris Berger, now a doctor of laws and a wife of Dr. Colin Gilchrist, and Elsa, a doctor of medicine, now studying in Vienna.

During Victor Berger's war difficulties, his wife toured Wisconsin, as his spokesman. But she has never dabbled in his political affairs otherwise.

She has interests of her own. For nearly 18 years she has been a member of the Milwaukee school board, and was the first woman ever elected. She belongs to the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom.

They maintain a home in Milwaukee, where Berger is publisher of the Milwaukee Leader, called the most powerful socialist paper in the world.

"We don't like politics," says Mrs. Berger. "If there were any other socialist who could win a seat in Congress from Wisconsin, Victor would gladly step out."

"But while there is no other spokesman for the people who depend on him, he has no alternative. He can't fall there."

NEWS FROM ORANGE COUNTY TOWNS

BAY ENTRANCE REPORTS HIT BY J. A. BECK

BALBOA, July 15.—Misleading reports regarding the condition of the entrance to Newport Bay have been circulated about the entrance, according to J. A. Beck, commander of the Newport Harbor Yacht club. Beck today was writing letters to commodores of various yacht clubs on the Pacific coast, telling them of the true conditions existing at the harbor entrance.

In his letters, Beck points out that at low tide there is nine feet of water in the harbor channel. At high tide, the water is 16 feet deep. The entrance is over a sand bar protected by a rock jetty, according to Beck. Precautions against any mishaps have been taken by the city, Beck says.

He points out that no yachts have ever been lost in the entrance to the harbor. He states in the missives that pilots at the entrance to the harbor entrance during the regatta to be held from August 1 to 7, to conduct boats in and out of the bay.

He is writing to the yacht clubs to offset any information which the clubs may have received as to the condition of the Orange county harbor entrance.

The regatta is to be held on Newport Bay under the auspices of the Newport Harbor Yacht club. Beck has provided for outside anchorage for large yachts, according to the letters.

SPEED CLASS ADVOCATED BY BEACH JUDGE

NEWPORT BEACH, July 15.—Boys are the most frequent violators of speed laws, according to a report from City Recorder W. A. Leonard yesterday. The first motor speed violator to appear before Judge Leonard during the past two months was Miss M. Suich, of San Pedro. Miss Suich appeared in court yesterday to plead guilty to a charge of speeding 10 miles an hour and paid a $20 fine.

Judge Leonard advocates a special class in law observance in the public schools.

Boys and girls of high school and grammar school age appear before me for speeding. They have meant no wrong, yet they have endangered the lives of people on the highway and have broken the law. They have no money and if their parents pay their fines, they don't receive any lesson from being arrested," Judge Leonard declared in summing up the matter.

Leonard yesterday sent five speeders to the juvenile court in Santa Ana.

Leonard is open for suggestions on how to handle the exuberant youths. He declares he doesn't want to send any of the young people to jail.

AMERICAN WOMEN ADMIRE OVER WORLD FOR BEAUTY, SAYS LAGUNA TRAVELER

That American women are admired all over the world for their beauty and ability to wear clothes; that Mussolini is accepted as the outstanding statesman of Europe, that Great Britain looks upon America as a close friend and that we are openly admired and praised by the people of the empire; that 97 1/2 per cent of the people of England were loyal to the government during the recent strike and that American customs are rapidly being adopted in Europe, are some of the high lights of an interview yesterday with A. B. Marshall, president of the Laguna Beach Realty board, who has just returned from a trip to England.

"I do hope that more and more people, representing every community in the world, will travel," said Mr. Marshall, "I firmly believe that if all of the people could travel and see other countries, that the world would come to a better understanding. I particularly hope that more Americans will travel to Europe."

"All American women are received abroad with admiration because of their unusually fresh beauty, their grace and unobtrusive freedom of manner and ease in the world," he said. "They have won the approval of their sisters abroad and that means something. I thought American women knew how to smoke until I went abroad, but it will be necessary for American women to go to Europe to find out how it's done. I saw the most smoke in public with perfect freedom and it seems quite natural."

Mr. Marshall went over on the Majestic and returned on the Ohio. Asked about the feeling of traveled Americans over the prohibition question, he replied:

"When the passengers first got on the boat, they seemed to be repressed or held in bondage, as we would say. When the vessel was out to sea, it seemed as if shackles had been unlocked and the people set free. With very rare exceptions, the passengers felt that a liberty that had been taken away from them had been restored temporarily. Yet I did not see an intoxicated person all the time I was away. I saw no extra indulgence in the smoking room."

"The cities of America are far ahead of England when it comes to business enterprise. Over there, the convenience of the customer is looked after but the salesmen are slow and indifferent. They don't seem to care whether you purchase an article or not. It is surprising, however, how rapidly the American ideas in building are being accepted and the shops along Regent street would do credit to an up-to-date American city. Goods beautifully displayed and the stores look out for the convenience of the buying public. You know just where to look for what you want. The busy American syndicate, is one of the finest in the world. On the front is carved a design of two clasped hands, symbolizing the friendship between America and England. This has been the subject of much favorable comment and has helped to cement the cordial relations now existing between the two countries."

"The people of England admire the Americans very much and sincerely wish to co-operate with this country in trade and in solving political problems. The work of the Americans in the work is praised everywhere I went. I am proud to tell them that I am an American citizen."

"What is the feeling about the French franc?" he was asked.

"There is a great deal of depression everywhere in Europe but the hope is held out that some way will be found out of the difficulty by the French statesmen," said Mr. Marshall. "The people of England feel sad because there has been so much apparent indifference on the part of France in meeting obligations. England is paying her debts and is proud to do so. Since her declaration to pay every cent, the pound has been restored to its full value on the money market. But France really seems to be making an eleven hour effort to make good on her obligations. The men we saw here are endeavoring to introduce economical measures which are working on tax bills aimed to be just to all classes of citizens and they cut down certain forms of foolish expenditures, like those for luxuries."

"Mussolini is accepted as the greatest statesman of Europe, and with very few exceptions, the people believe that he is a power for good and that he will restore the world to peace. He stands out alone in achievement in the effort of continental Europe to recover from the economic depression following the great war."

"I believe there will be a concerted effort by the powers to bring about measures that will prevent the utter collapse of the currency of countries that suffered so terribly from the war."

Speaking of American cities and places and conditions, Mr. Marshall had this to say:

"I regretted very much to see what a disgrace the Sequi-centennial exposition in Philadelphia has turned out to be. It is a disgrace to the American people. The supposedly great fair is an unfinished product that cannot help but harm America in the eyes of the world. I do not hesitate to say that its failure and I will be borne out in my statements by those who have visited the Quaker City. The Japanese exhibit is probably the finest that ever has been seen here by a foreign country and amid the faded buildings and the poor exhibits of other countries and states it seems all the bigger and better. Everything is incomplete. The grounds are in an uproar. It is pitiful that the rest of the exposition is so out of harmony with Japan's complete exhibit. The big feature of the California exhibit is the display by the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, which truly is beautiful."

Asked about ideas for city planning, Mr. Marshall expressed the hope that Southern California, in general, and Laguna Beach in particular, would keep away from measures that would take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, day-evening, and relief will come instantly.

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. It neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges sour waste from the system without purging. Besides, it is more pleasant to take than soda. Insist upon "Phillips." Twenty-five cent bottles, any drug store.—Adv.

NEW CHAMPS REVEALED AT PARK PICNIC

ORANGE, July 15.—Although the crowd did not come up to expectations of the committee in charge, the Orange community picnic, held in Orange county park yesterday afternoon, is reported to have developed some new champions in the different classes of competition common to such affairs. Perhaps the most interesting were the pie eating and milk drinking contests. When first called, these contests were open to boys only. However, enough boys could not be secured to make the affair interesting, so several girls who desired to be at the picnic were lined up with the boys. The gastronomic competition was won by a boy, Kenneth Warren. Following a baseball game, athletic events and the picnic supper at 6:30 p. m., a dance was conducted in the dance pavilion. A considerable number arrived later in the evening to swell the crowd at the dance. Approximately 200 residents of Orange and environs were present.

A DIFFICULT PROBLEM

Recent and continuing experiences of the Santa Ana Board of Education lend emphasis and special local interest to the fact that the "turnover" problem is national in its scope, and just now is again engaging the serious attention of the National Education Association. At the last convention of the association, speakers declared that the weakest spot in the profession today is the turnover. Teaching was declared to be more of a procession than it was a profession.

The coming and going of teachers was deplored, and in a general discussion of the subject it was pointed out how failure of teachers to remain in the profession any length of time not only materially hinders the education system of the country, but prevents the wider functioning in the way of community welfare, a recognized factor today in teaching.

Who's to blame and what's to be done about it? First, let us say that we are of the opinion that the situation is better today than it used to be. Teachers' salaries are being increased, so that the call from other professional or business walks is not so impelling as it used to be.

There's a theory that goes back to the earlier days in teaching that is partly to blame for the situation. This theory was based on the fallacious idea that unmarried women made better teachers than those who were married, and therefore probably housekeepers. The notion was further encouraged by the school trustee who was sure that whenever a teacher married she should give up her job so that some other woman who had to earn her living could get the job. The effect on the school was not considered at all.

And, by the way, Santa Ana is not free from that idea in education yet. Business houses all over Santa Ana employ married women, and some of the employers say that married women make first class help. The general practice in our schools, however, is that married women when employed should be given employment in the Mexican schools, with better assignments going to unmarried women.

The employment of married women, of course, will not solve the educators' problem, but employment of married women teachers strictly on merit, with assignments to be made strictly on the need of the positions, is something that will help. School children are entitled to the best available teachers, and it doesn't appear to us that the question of whether they are married or unmarried is essential in the schools any more than it is in business houses. And there are some situations in schools and certain influences in schools in which sensible married women would be an asset in a faculty.

There will always be a heavy turnover in schools, for they will always be used by many, however sincere and capable they may be, merely as a stepping stone to other work or to married life.

KEEP THE BRAKES ON

The closing of the border at Tia Juana at 6 o'clock has been hurting business. Tia Juana dives have been losing $10,000 a night, they say, and therefore they are prepared to ask the American government to please let the border stay open until 9 o'clock at night, or later.

Unconsciously, the Tia Juana interests, in their statement, are offering the best argument possible for not granting their request. Closing of the border at 6 o'clock has very nearly killed the night business of Tia Juana. For every $10,000 not spent at Tia Juana, Americans on this side of the border have $10,000 remaining in their pockets. The weekly toll of Tia Juana in broken spirits and ruined lives, in suicides, in financial loss, has been reduced to a small percentage of what it was before Congressman Swing, backed by the moral forces of his district, secured the closing of the border at 9 o'clock, and to a still smaller percentage by the closing at 6.

Border closing has proven effective. The cry of Tia Juana for relief will be backed up by San Diego business concerns that share in Tia Juana's drawing power. Two years ago these same business interests joined in the fight to unseat Congressman Swing, and failed miserably. Their work now will be quieter and therefore more dangerous. Appeals will be made to Washington. Our interest in the matter will be to fight at every opportunity to maintain the 6 o'clock closing order. Tia Juana, in its appeal, has given us the best possible reason for argument.

STARLINGS AND SPARROWS

Sometimes these artificial upsets of the balance of nature work, and then again sometimes they do not. When the blacksnake was introduced into a western state with the idea of proving that blacksnakes would exterminate rattlers, the two deadly enemies looked at each other across the cage in which they were supposed to engage in a deadly conflict, and calmly went to far corners and went to sleep.

Now it is starlings introduced to fight English sparrows, in eastern cities. Bird lovers say they have begun to show up in numbers, and are starting to fight the sparrows and to win. So far, so good. But if the English sparrows are all driven out and the starlings multiply, how are we to be so sure that the starlings will prove more happy neighbors than the sparrows? For if they fight and drive out the bold sparrows, how will the more pacific varieties of songbirds fare against them?

The starlings have been introduced, the only answer is to wait and see. We are interested, even though sparrows in Santa Ana seem not to have multiplied and become nuisances as they have in most places they have reached.

DICTATORSHIP GROWING

The list of European dictatorships grows. To Italy, Spain, Greece, Poland and Hungary is added Portugal with a possibility of France and one or two others coming in before long.

It is discouraging for those who believe in the right and ability of the people to govern themselves. We seem to have expected too much from the World War, and wanted results too quickly.

The principle of democracy is still sound. There was just such a reaction as this after the French Revolution. Over-emphasis of freedom brought many abuses and frightened many people, and so the pendulum swung back to extreme conservatism. It is not swinging back so far this time.

It is not royalty that is doing the dictating now. What arbitrary government there is springs mostly from the people. Democracy itself puts forward its strong men, and entrusts large powers to them for the moment, but doubtless stands ready to pull them down and reassert itself when the time comes.

Education grows, information spreads, society in general is awake, conscious and moving. A more intelligent democracy is evolving. It may come with the next swing of the pendulum.

Two statesmen, one of them, instead of shooting the other, was so ungentlemanly as to tell him what he thought of him, then turn his back and walk off. The man whose life he saved will never forgive that.

Welfare of Islands Is Aim

Pasadena Star-News

American politics in the Philippines are severely criticized in the Islands, and it is possible also to hear criticism at home. American newspapers do not agree regarding the merits of a bill introduced by Representative Kiehn in the United States House of Representatives virtually to withdraw a large item of monetary support from the native administration in the archipelago.

At the present time, and for the past twenty years, the Filipino government has received from America the full amount of duties collected at United States ports on goods imported from the Philippines. This money is paid by American consumers, and cannot be construed in any manner as a tax upon the Filipinos. It has been looked upon as a friendly concession or gift to the islanders, in fact as one of Uncle Sam's gestures for the purpose of inspiring confidence among his new wards in his generosity and in the honesty of his purpose.

Like all such remittances, to which the recipient may have no legal claim, these payments have been accepted as a matter of course, and now that it is proposed to place the money at the disposal of the Governor-General of the Islands, rather than in the hands of the native Legislature, an outcry has been raised, and its echoes are heard and read in this country.

The Filipinos still would have the benefit of these customs duties, but the money, instead of being spent under the authorization of the Legislature, would be administered by the Governor-General and his assistants.

When the law was enacted, Americans very largely were in control of administrative affairs in the Philippines. Now less than four per cent of the personnel of the island government is American. The cabinet is composed exclusively of Filipinos, and with the exception of three of the non-Christian provinces, the governors are natives.

The Governor-General has found a need for expert advice along many lines of importance to Philippine development, and the support which has been proposed for his office would be thus utilized.

There is no purpose in usurping the functions of the native Legislature. There seems to be no good reason to attribute this suggested act, of President Coolidge, to any motive that may have arisen through Filipino agitation for independence. America's aims in the Philippines surely have been sufficiently proved to satisfy any fair minded observer that the United States has no ulterior designs, and hopes only to promote the interests of a possession which it did not seek, does not want, and would be only too happy to relinquish if the safety and welfare of the people most directly concerned could be assured.

Preserve The Trees

Riverside Enterprise

Citizens of Glendale are making a strenuous fight to save some of the beautiful trees that it has taken many years to grow. It is the same old fight that many cities, including Riverside, have been through from time to time. Alleged improvements have been broached that would sacrifice these attractive ornaments that every city should protect to the limit.

Not long ago the former fine old pepper trees, which had grown for many years on either side of the Valley Boulevard near Alhambra on the way to Los Angeles, traveled frequently by Riverside, were sacrificed for so-called boulevard improvements and lot subdivisions. The change certainly does not enhance the attractiveness of this former lovely drive. Instead the comfortable shade furnished by the stately peppers, the automobilists are now saturated with blazing and unobscured sunlight as they pass along that way.

It takes many years to grow a beautiful tree and the ruthless hand of a vandal can destroy it in a day.

In a preceding article there was given figures showing the decrease in typhoid fever in the United States during recent years. The reduction in tuberculosis during the same period is almost as striking as the reduction in typhoid fever.

Particularly is this seen to be true when it is remembered that the combating of tuberculosis offers a much greater variety of problems to be considered and of obstacles to be overcome than does the control of typhoid fever.

There are, no doubt, many factors concerned in the lowering of the death rate from tuberculosis, and opinions differ somewhat as to the extent and influence of these factors.

IT KILLS OLD AND YOUNG

Whooping cough, like measles, but in striking contrast to such diseases as diphtheria and typhoid fever, has steadily refused to yield to the efforts of health officers and physicians in their attempts to control it.

Here again as in measles, we have a period in which the disease exists in a highly contagious state, the symptoms of the disease being for a time not sufficiently manifest to enable one to be certain that the condition is whooping cough.

This period in which the disease is not recognized may last from three to ten days, or even longer. It is often difficult to recognize whooping cough until the characteristic whoop appears, particularly if the disease is mild; though a cough which is paroxysmal, especially if it is accompanied by vomiting, should always excite one's suspicions.

It is obvious that with this long period in which the disease is unrecognized there will be many exposures of other children which would not occur otherwise, and care should be exercised by parents and by school authorities in order to exclude from school any child who may be in the initial stage of whooping cough.

The most dangerous periods of life for whooping cough are infancy and old age. More than five per cent of all deaths from whooping cough in the United States occur in children under one year of age, and more than 95 per cent in children under five years of age.

Mothers should be extremely careful to keep the child of pre-school age away from whooping cough.

A Swell Fishin' Trip This Turned Out to Be

Pride In Ownership

San Francisco Chronicle

Mankind in motion is more interesting than mankind at rest, but mankind at rest is productive of sounder values. There is a dramatic, an epic quality in the exploits of the pioneer, but until the nomad has settled down to tilling and making there can be not even a beginning of those foundations on which a sound and economic social system can be based. The building of homes is the beginning of progress.

It is not certain whether the present high percentage of home owners in the United States is the cause or the effect of the abounding prosperity that is ours. Very likely it is both. It is an effect because home ownership is easy in a land so rich in opportunity for the common man, and it is a cause because it guarantees that prosperity and insures the rational development of the community.

The home owner has a constructive aim in life. As a direct taxpayer, he takes a more active interest in local government. He is a better citizen. He has an interest in the advancement of the community and, more broadly, in the perpetuation of those institutions on which the happiness and welfare of his family depend.

Pride goes with ownership, and possibly that is why the owner of his own dwelling gets more pleasure out of it than he would if he were occupying someone else's house, and he is able to create about it a more wholesome, healthful and happy atmosphere in which to bring up his children.

Worth While Verse

THE CLASSICS ON THEIR GOLDEN THRONES

Often weary of the times,
Wistful for perfect things that die,
Saddened with wishing that beguines
The lovely face of life, I sigh,
And many a consolation try,
Fleeing the Present that disowns
The laureled Past, and dares decry
The classics on their golden thrones.

I seek old gardens, where soft chimies
Fall from old belfries in the sky.
And gaze on Sidney's moon that climbs
With sad steps for the lover's eye,
And dream of chivalries laid by
In chancels dim with sculptured stones;
Then to a lamp-lit book I go—
The classics on their golden thrones.

Ah, then, shut in from modern rhymes,
I reckon not that the world's awry,
Yea! I forgive it all its crimes,
Let it go hang as Haman high—
Who cares if it be wet or dry!
With Shakespeare I forget my groans,
And Homer gives my tears the lie—
The classics on their golden thrones.

Prince, when you would the blues defy,
Flee "Progress" and her megaphones,
There is a refuge ever nigh—
The classics on their golden thrones.

Well how about jest the number 13 by itself without Friday or anything, is that unlucky, ma? I sed.

If I had 13 children who all asked as many questions as you I'd certainly consider myself unlucky, ma sed.

California Politics

There has been a good deal said by Governor Richardson and his friends concerning $10,000,000 in the state treasury.

The Richardson camp claims it as evidence of successful economy. Lieutenant Governor Young, in Los Angeles a day or two ago, went into detail as to how there happened to be $10,000,000. He pointed out that the money had been accumulated as the result of suspended law suits.

The Orange News, recently, a constant advocate of all things Richardsonian, had the following editorial in relation to the ten million.

The proof of the pudding it as been sagely said, is in the eating. The proof of the actuality of economy is in the money saved.

The state of California has at present a surplus in the treasury of $10,000,000. This surplus has materially increased during the past three years which have been entirely Richardson administration years.

The thing is, of course, unprecedented. California never had such a surplus before. Nor on the other hand, has California had a governor who talked economy and meant it.

This surplus, it may be recalled, has been amassed in the face of one of the most critical periods of California history. The hoof and mouth epidemic placed the state under an unprecedented financial strain. The growth of the state's institutions, due to the growth of the population, has been regular and uninterrupted. The business of the state in spite of unusual stresses, has been carried forward without injury. The surplus is growing.

The surplus signifies that the state is under a business administration which believes in and enforces economy.

Governor Richardson declares his campaign will be based on economy. The issue will be economy and business management of the state. He will stand on his record. The record is sound upon the question of economy and business in government. If the people want that kind of government, there is a man who will give it to them. His name is Richardson. The surplus of $10,000,000 in the state treasury is the pledge of his performance.—Orange Daily News.

Doesn't See It That Way

Down in San Diego county, the Ramona Sentinel took up the Orange News' editorial, re-printed it in the Sentinel and followed it up with comment as follows:

The above editorial published by a special representative and beneficiary of the Richardson administration, has been extensively copied by publishers favorable to the Richardson candidacy. It is, however, an exceptionally brazen and shameless attempt to gain undeserved credit for a purely political purpose.

Richardson is no more responsible for that ten million surplus than any other state officer. He had nothing to do with securing it. In fact it developed in spite of him and over his opposition. It resulted from the passage of the King tax bill which placed an additional proportionate part of the taxes upon the corporations.

The two great railroad companies doing business in the state resisted the collection of the additional taxes and brought suit attacking the King law as unconstitutional. This of course stopped the collection of the taxes or at least held them in escrow, so to speak, pending the decision of the case in the courts. Those sums were not available as public funds and the regular budgets had to be made up without including them.

In the meantime the railroad company officials changed their minds and decided to accept the King bill and pay their taxes without further litigation and the result was that these taxes, AMOUNTING TO MUCH MORE THAN TEN MILLIONS, came into the treasury and there is a surplus.

All the time that the fight over the King bill was going on Richardson was opposed to it. He was lined up with the other reactionaries who were fighting all tax reforms proposed to equalize the tax burdens between the people and the corporations. He is now opposed to the King law and would reveal it if he had his way. Yet after doing all he could to prevent such a thing as a surplus in the treasury by reason of the King bill he and his supporters are now claiming credit for its existence. Common people are simply unable to understand brazen effrontery and downright political dishonesty of any candidate who will make such a claim under such circumstances.

That Ten Million

The Governor's claim for credit for the presence of $10,000,000 in the state treasury is handled without gloves by the San Bernardino Sun, which newspaper is supporting Rex B. Goodell for governor.

Under the head, "Down to Cases in Governor Fight" the Sun has the following:

Rex B. Goodell is beginning to call a spade by that name in his campaign for the Republican nomination for Governor. In particular, he is puncturing Governor Richardson's claim for credit because there happens to be a surplus in the State treasury. And "happens" is exactly the word. The chief executive is merely lucky, and willing to assume responsibility.

In an address before a big throng at Capistrano, the barbecue sponsored by the chamber of commerce of the mission town in Orange county, Mr. Goodell said:

Neither Mr. Young nor Mr. Richardson offers you a constructive thought in their campaign utterances so far. Mr. Young attempts to hide behind a smoke screen of the Boulder Canyon project, an enterprise of which everybody approves. Governor Richardson never makes a proclamation, the surplus he has now in the State treasury. We all know that nine-tenths of that surplus is money raised under the King tax bill and impounded with the court in an action brought against the State by the great railroad interests of California and that the balance is very largely made up of appropriations made by the Legislature for additions to and betterments of our State institutions, which have been purposely held so that the Governor might boost of the surplus in the treasury.

In what is practically his first campaign speech—although despite his adulation of politics and politicians the Governor never makes a move without carefully computing the political effect—and in the opening paragraph quoted by the Los Angeles Times, which is supporting Mr. Richardson, he says:

I ask you to remember this: Under my administration State taxes have not been increased, notwithstanding the great increase in population, and a $10,000,000 general fund surplus has been secured. What I took office, the general fund was exhausted.

Which contains about as much misinformation as could be crowded into that number of words, and two statements which mislead, if they do not actually misrepresent. No general fund surplus has been saved. On the contrary, the surplus in the treasury is almost wholly due to the fact that under the King Tax bill, for which former Senator Lyman M. King of Redlands is largely responsible, and which was put through under his leadership in the Legislature of 1921, no less than $11,500,000 in taxes was paid in by the railroads under protest and impounded with the court until their attempt to have the law knocked out by the courts failed, and then about a year ago, when neither the Governor nor the Legislature could spend the money the railroads found they were licked and abandoned their fight, and the money impounded, $11,500,000 according to figures from the office of Controller Riley, was dumped into the State treasury, and there's your surplus that Governor Richardson says "has been saved."

As a matter of fact, we had supposed the surplus is more than the $10,000,000 that he claims. The railroad money impounded was $11,500,000, plus one year's tax payment after the fight was abandoned. Where's the rest of it?

And again: The Governor says State taxes have not been increased. Well, they haven't, and again they have. It is true no bill has passed the Legislature and been approved by Governor Richardson, that increased State taxes. But the King tax bill, increased State taxes so much that the railroads fought it through to the Supreme Court of the United States, was passed eight months before Governor Richardson took office. It was immediately attacked by the corporations and fought for three years, and the State got none of those increased taxes until they came flooding into the surplus that the Governor now boasts of.

The question is therefore submitted to a discriminating public as to whether or not State taxes have been increased under Governor Richardson's administration, and what credence is to be given to other claims put forward by a candidate for Governor who tries to get away with this.

Borah and Johnson

Riverside Press.—The most interesting political news of the last few days is the announcement that Senator W. E. Borah of Idaho is coming to California to campaign for Judge Robert Clarke against Senator Shortridge on the world court issue; it is understood that the Idaho senator will make three speeches in this state and that Senator Johnson will speak with him.

Senator Johnson, it is further reported, will make several other speeches in addition to those where he will share the honors with Senator Borah. Whether Riverside will be included in his itinerary is not known but Santa Ana has been promised a date. Senator Johnson, it is understood, will urge the nomination of Clarke for senator and Young for governor.

One thing is certain—Senator Borah and Senator Johnson, whether they campaign separately or together, will have something to say that will be worth hearing and they will draw big crowds. They are sure to inject some life into a campaign that so far has been exceedingly dull.

Major Lineberger seems ready to take on any and all issues whether they are relevant to his campaign for United States senator or not. He has come out in a violent attack on the water and power act. The Press agrees with him but this paper is unable to see where that matter is an issue in the campaign for a federal office.

State Senator Herbert W. Slater of Santa Rosa is authority for the statement that a move is being fathered by Mattison B. Jones, Glendale Democrat, to get Associate Justice James H. Seawell of Santa Rosa into the race for United States senator as the Bourbon candidate. Jones would transfer National Committeeman Isadore B. Dockweiler from the senatorial fight to the gubernatorial race as the Democratic candidate and run Seawell for senator.
